TAFT, STASSEN LAUD SELVES, HIT DEMOCRATS

Toss Bouquets at Each Other, Then Brickbats at Administration.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 17—Potential Republican presidential candidates, Minnesota's former Governor Harold E. Stassen and Ohio's senior Senator Robert A. Taft, tossed bouquets at each other last night before lashing the Democratic administration in speeches from the same Columbus platform.

Stassen already is an avowed candidate and Taft will announce his decision about entering the race here, Oct. 24. The concensus is that he will toss his hat into the ring.

Taft pulled no punches in castigating the Democratic administration both on its domestic and foreign policies, insisting that it had neither. In foreign relations, he declared, "we do not know whether the administration is leading us to peace or war."

"The whole foreign policy," he said, "has been a riot of inconsistencies, and neither the people or congress have been advised what the real facts are."

Sees Bright G.O.P. Future

Stassen was less critical of the Truman administration, devoting most of his speech to his conception of the Republican party of the future. It should become "the party of hope," he said, in contrast to the Democratic party becoming known as the party of gloom."

The occasion for the speechmaking was the annual conference dinner of the Ohio Federation of Republican Women's organizations attended by more than a thousand women party leaders, state officials and state organization members.

Referring to the CIO picketing during Taft's recent western tour, Stassen said:

"The despicable attempts to picket and break up his meetings were an attempt to interfere with the open discussion of vital issues and were distinctly un-American in nature.

"These tactics should have been long ago denounced by the President of the United States and by Mr. William Green and Mr. Phillip Murray."

Also commenting on the picketing, Taft said that "if the labor bill becomes an issue in the campaign next year there is no doubt but that the Republicans will win by a two to one majority." Last night's meeting was not picketed.

Freedom Stressed

In constructing the Republican party as the one of hope, Stassen said, "we should make it clear that we have a deep and abiding faith in the philosophy that man was meant to be free and that this concept, intelligently implemented, will win through against any challenge that communism or any other totalitarian ideology can present to us.

"Let us proclaim our belief in the workers of this country and proceed to advocate the justice of the new Taft-Hartley labor law as a charter of freedom for the laboring millions of Americans."

Striking at the administration's efforts to effect a voluntary food saving plan, Taft said "it does not understand the first principles of appealing to the people for voluntary action, as we see in the fumbling efforts to produce a much needed saving of food stuffs in the United States.

"The OPA and other New Deal agencies have always relied on the 'crack down' theory. They don't understand how to put on a voluntary program."

Third Party Threat

Taft also charged that the administration's domestic policies are "dominated by the left wing because of the constant threat of a third party, which would make further Democratic party control of the nation impossible."

Commenting on President Truman's veto of the Taft-Hartley act and its subsequent passage over his veto, Taft asserted that "as long as the Democratic party remains in power, it is clear that it will take orders from the leaders of organized labor regardless how overwhelming may be the sentiment for reform."

Answering charges of union leaders that the labor law makes slave laborers out of the workers, Taft said, "it is the Democratic policy, not the Republican, which threatens the labor union members with slave labor and the suppression of all their constitutional rights." He then referred to President Truman's recommendation for legislation to draft strikers into the armed forces, which he said he took some credit for blocking.

Mrs. Martha Taft, wife of the senator in an afternoon speech charged President Truman with the "murder of OPA before the Republicans got down to Washington." She said the President "got the jitters" and removed most of the OPA controls before the Republicans took over control of congress.

This abrupt removal of controls and alleged spending which, she said, started with the first Roosevelt administration, was claimed by Mrs. Taft to be the chief cause for inflation.

The women's organization concludes its fall meeting today with a noonday luncheon.

"MILE OF PLEDGES" INAUGURATED. Mrs. Clinton P. Anderson, wife of the secretary of agriculture, is first to sign the "Mile of Pledges" to support the administration's food-saving program at the Washington, D. C., Home Builders exposition. When the 5,280-foot paper is filled with housewives' signatures, it will be forwarded to President Truman.

Byrnes Relates How Stalin Waged Fight For Rule of Poland

By JAMES F. BYRNES

CLOSELY related to the reparations issue was the problem of fixing Poland's boundaries. President Roosevelt said, at the outset of the discussion, that the United States felt that Poland's eastern boundary should generally follow the so-called Curzon Line. He still held, he said, the view he had expressed at Teheran that it would be desirable to adjust the southern end of the line so that the city Lwow and at least a portion of the oil fields should be inside Polish territory.

Prime Minister Churchill pointed out he had supported the Curzon Line in Parliament, including the Soviet Union's retention of Lwow. The claim of the Soviet Union to this area, he said, "is one not founded on force but upon right." But if the Soviet Union made a "magnanimous gesture to a much weaker power" such as that suggested by the president, Mr. Churchill said, Britain "would admire and acclaim the Soviet position."

Stalin Speaks With Vehemence

Marshal Stalin replied with an impassioned statement.

"The Curzon Line is the line of Curzon and Clemenceau and of those Americans who took part in 1918 and 1919 in the conference which then took place," Stalin declared. "The Russians were not invited and did not take part. . . . Lenin was not in agreement with the Curzon Line. . . . Now some people want that we should be less Russian than Curzon was and Clemenceau was. You would drive us into shame. What will be said by the White Russians and the Ukrainians? They will say that Stalin and Molotov are far less reliable defenders of Russia than are Curzon and Clemenceau. I could not take such a position and return to Moscow with an open face."

At this point, Stalin stood at the conference table as he spoke. It was the only time during the entire conference that he exhibited his strong feelings in such a manner.

Voices Interest in Poland

"I prefer the war should continue a little longer although it costs us blood and to give Poland compensation in the west at the expense of the Germans," he continued. "I will maintain and I will ask all friends to support me in this. . . . I am in favor of extending the Polish western frontier to the Neisse River."

Mr. Churchill doubted the wisdom of extending the western boundary of Poland to the Neisse river. He agreed that Poland's western boundary should be moved into what had been German territory but asserted "it would be a pity to stuff the Polish goose so full of German food that he will die of indigestion." He estimated that the taking of territory in East Prussia as far west as the Oder would necessitate the moving of six million Germans.

Stalin protested that the number would be much smaller because "where our troops come in, the Germans run away."

Churchill reminded him that consideration must be given "to where those Germans are that run away," and asked, "will there be room for them in what is left of Germany?"

Privately, Churchill expressed to me the opinion that placing the line at the Neisse river would mean the transferring of nearly nine million Germans. Such a number, he asserted, could never

MRS. WEIST STILL IN CRITICAL CONDITION

Hospital Reports Her in Semi-conscious State.

Mrs. Susie Weist, 76, remains in critical condition in Kenton Antonio hospital today of injuries suffered in an automobile-truck crash near LaRue Wednesday afternoon which resulted in the death of her husband.

Mrs. Weist suffered severe internal injuries and a broken left hip and right leg in the accident which took the life of her 80-year-old husband, William.

Mrs. Weist has been in a semi-conscious state since the accident, hospital authorities report.

Her daughter, Mrs. Harry Miller of near Marion, has been with her at the hospital since Wednesday night.

Mr. Weist died in the hospital at 6 p. m. Wednesday about two hours after a Boyd and Uncapher ambulance had rushed the aged couple to Kenton. He died of internal injuries and shock.

The automobile-truck crash occurred at the intersection of state route 37 and Hepburn road near LaRue at 3 p. m. Wednesday. State highway patrolman reported that Mr. Weist had driven his old model car into the side of a van-type truck as he was coming out of Hepburn road. The truck was northbound on route 37. Both the car and truck overturned, but the truck driver, Richard Clement, 32, of Kenton, escaped with minor injuries.

Tentative plans for Mr. Weist's funeral call for services to be held at the Ford funeral home in LaRue at 1:30 p. m. Sunday.

Driver Dies as Bridge Falls Near Mt. Vernon

By The Associated Press

MT. VERNON, O., Oct. 17—The driver of a truckload of steel was burned to death today when his vehicle was trapped in the collapse of a bridge over the Kokosing river on U. S. route 62.

The state highway patrol identified him tentatively as Charles Horton, 26, of near Butler, Pa. The patrol said R. E. Oesterley of Butler owned the truck.

The accident occurred 12 miles east of here. D. D. Edgar, a highway department maintenance superintendent, said the truck apparently struck a side of the bridge. One end of the span dropped to the river, 30 feet below.

The span, which has a steel frame and a wooden floor, was built in 1898.

SEARCH PARTY FINDS BODY OF WOMAN HERE

75 Neighbors and School Pupils Come Here from Lexington To Aid Family.

The body of Mrs. Harry A. Palm, 69, was found lying in a weed field on the White Oaks Farm shortly after 10:30 a. m. today by a cordon of 75 Lexington, O., farmers and schoolboys.

The elderly woman had been the object of a four-day search since her disappearance from the Sawyer sanatorium about noon Monday.

Her body, fully clothed with the exception of shoes was found approximately a third of a mile directly west of the sanatorium buildings and lying a little to the south of the center of the 20 acre field.

The searching party ran across the body within 20 minutes after commencing to comb the fields adjacent to the sanatorium.

The group that made the discovery comprised about 25 Lexington farmers and friends of the Palm family who had begun to comb the field west of the sanatorium. The group included Harry Wagner, Melvin Koheiser, John Vanderwelt, and other neighbors of the Palms.

Discovers Shoes

Paul Brown, a Lexington Central schoolboy in the second of three searching parties found Mrs. Palm's shoes along the line fence at the south side of the field. The schoolboys under the direction of Richard Irwin, their principal, were covering the wheat field to the south.

Deputy Sheriff Ray LaMonda, leading a third party that had fanned out in the area north of the sanatorium was summoned and immediately notified Coroner E. H. Morgan.

Dr. Morgan upon examination of the body said that death was due to exhaustion and probably occurred sometime during the day or night Monday, the day of her disappearance.

Apparently from the location of the body in relation to the sanatorium and the point at which her black oxfords were found, Mrs. Palm had wandered southwestward from the sanatorium about a half mile. Her course would have gone through a grove of trees to the rear of the sanatorium, then on through several fields, and then north to a point almost directly west of the main grounds. Her shoes were found on the south side of the fence between the weed field where the body was found and the wheat field to the south.

Family Here

Her husband, Harry A. Palm, 67, a farmer of near Lexington, her two sons, H. W. of Mansfield and Blake of Cleveland, and her daughter, Mrs. G. J. Nixon were standing on the drive at the front of the sanatorium when searchers brought word that she had been found.

H. W. and Blake Palm had been in the act of dispatching searching parties by car to check along route 23 and route 4, as the main search was scarcely more than well underway.

Deputy LaMonda had already taken the field with his party, as had a second party of Lexington men, shortly before the schoolboys went out.

Schoolboys Volunteer

The school group comprised 42 boys from the upper classes at Lexington Central School. They had volunteered at a special meeting in the school gym this morning to aid the Palm's in the search. Many of the group were Boy Scouts. They arrived at the santiorium about 10:15 and were led by Richard Irwin, school principal. The lads were dressed in old clothes and sneakers, prepared to take an active part in the search. In the school bus were lunches packed by the women of the Lexington Presbyterian church. The pastor, Rev. Paul Beighley was one of the leaders in organizing the Lexington community support for the search for Mrs. Palm. After sending several carloads of men from Lexington at about 8 a. m., Rev. Beighley arrived with the remainder of the group which numbered about 35, shortly after 10.

The search was over, however, before all volunteers at hand had been sent out. Overcome with grief, the stricken family thanked their Lexington neighbors who prepared to return home.

At the time Mrs. Palm was found, plans were being made to follow up several "leads" that had been phoned in to both H. W. Palm and Dr. Carl Sawyer, head of the sanitorium.

Palm had received word that a Cardington man, Floyd Fox, had seen an elderly woman walking along route 23 about halfway between Waldo and Norton, late Monday. When Fox learned of the missing woman, he contacted the family. Palm was in the act of sending out a party by car to check route 23 down as far as Delaware.

A second lead came from an unidentified Marion woman who phoned police that she had narrowly missed striking an elderly woman walking along Route 30-S near the Erie Railroad underpass just west of Mansfield.

Plan Tribute To War Dead As First Bodies Reach City

Girl Scouting Makes Rapid Expansion Here in Four Years

This is one of a series of articles dealing with the welfare and character building agencies which participate in the Marion Community Foundation drive opening next Monday. The articles explain the work and program of the agencies and their urgent need for support in the annual campaign.

* * *

Since 1943, membership in Girl Scout troops of Marion community has tripled until today nearly 1,000 girls are participating in the well-rounded program of activities.

Within the last year, Girl Scout jurisdiction was extended to cover Marion county and plans are under way to greatly expand the countywide program in the coming year.

Rapid development of the Girl Scout organization in the last few years is attributed by leaders to increased interest expressed throughout the community and to the financial support of the Marion Community Foundation.

This year the Girl Scouts' budget in the Foundation calls for $8,828 to continue the present program and to make possible extending the program in the county.

Marion's Girl Scout Council, which has headquarters in Room 15 of the Citizens' Building on West Center Street, has been organized more than 15 years, but Scouting history extends many years beyond. Many Marion women with children and grandchildren in school today, and many of the women who are members of the Council, were members of the pioneer troops.

Every school district in Marion now has a Girl Scout troop whose members are taking an active part in community life, using leisure hours to their own and the community's advantage.

One of the chief aims of the program is to cooperate with parents, schools, and churches in directing and supervising the girls' leisure time, channeling idle hours into productive and citizenship-building activities.

Group work and play are emphasized and every opportunity is watched closely for it application to the strengthening of international interest and friendship.

Learn Cooperation

Marion's Girl Scouts learn community cooperation through their services to the hospital, the Marion County Federation of Wome's Clubs, and to various public drives throughout the year. At Christmas time last year the troops visited 300 shut-ins and added to the community's holiday spirit by carolling in all sections of the city.

The Marion Girl Scout program is fortunate in having its own camp, north of Marion. Camp Florence M. Young is being carefully developed with a view to preserving the natural beauty of the site and to provide shelter for wildlife and song birds native to the area.

Recently the camp was selected by the national Girl Scout organization as a stopping place for a troop of Girl Scouts from Louisville, Ky., who were on a pilgrimage.

The Marion Girl Scout Council also maintains a day camp which is open to girls of the city and county who want to enjoy summer outdoors life and to learn handcraft.

Instruction in Cooking

As a part of the Girl Scout homemakers' program, instructions in cooking have been made available to the members through the cooperation of the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. and the Ohio Public Service Co.

Community singing, folk dancing, dramatics, arts and crafts all have a part in the Girl Scout movement, which also includes health study and nature appreciation.

Through repetition, the Girl Scout laws and promises become embodied in the character of the girls and contribute to their becoming a definite factor in American life.

Officers of the council are Mrs. E. Paul Bachman, commissioner; Miss Ruth Kleinmaier, first deputy commissioner; Mrs. A. J. Wagner, second deputy commissioner; Mrs. Richard Myers, secretary; Miss Mary S. Kull, treasurer.

Others on the council are Mrs. Cecil Gabler, Mrs. John P. Courtright, Mrs. Robert G. Donley, Mrs. J. E. Frew, Mrs. E. E. Holt, Mrs. Clifford M. Howser, Mrs. Ray R. King, Mrs. W. C. Haldeman, Miss Ruth Kramer, Mrs. Vernon L. Street, Mrs. William R. Martin, Mrs. J. E. Oliphant, Mrs. Abe Scheen, Mrs. Elmer E. Smith, Mrs. Ernest O. Smith, Mrs. F. L. Thomas, Mrs. J. Wendell Wiant, Mrs. Fillmore Young, Mrs. C. J. Zimmerman, Mrs. Charles Dengler, Miss Dorothy Snider, Mrs. Stanley Feaver, Mrs. Fred Cheney, and Mrs. John Gillis.

GRAIN TRADERS DENY GAMBLING

Say Price Rises Caused by Economic "Laws," Not Their Action.

By The United Press

The nation's major boards of trade denied today that they were harboring "inflationary gamblers" and blamed high prices on natural economic causes such as intense demand.

Despite their protests to President Truman's charges, the department of justice already had started an investigation of grain marketing practices.

John T. Chlhane, president of the Minneapolis exchange, said that any investigation of grain markets would show that government buying, not speculation, had shot wheat prices upward.

Wheat Hits $3.05

Yesterday, while President Truman was telling a press conference that Attorney General Tom C. Clark was digging into speculation on all of the nation's grain and fiber exchanges, wheat went to $3.05 a bushel and held a good portion of its gains through the day.

Grain spokesmen said that a bad crop year, big government export buying quotas, and economic conditions had caused the rise.

In Los Angeles, Francis A. Truslow, president of the New York curb exchange, echoed other market officers. He said that rising prices of grain were caused by

ONLY PART OF U.S. HEEDS "LESS" DAYS

By The Associated Press

Meatless Tuesdays and eggless and poultryless Thursday are being observed by only part of the nation in the government's emergency food conservation program, surveys indicated today.

The program, in effect for the last two weeks, is "gaining momentum" in the country's restaurants, the National Restaurant association said. However, surveys in several cities showed no material drop in retail sales of meat, eggs and poultry in about 50 per cent of the places since President Truman urged observance of the meatless and poultryless days.

There appeared no letup in the upward trend of prices in many commodities at the country's principal markets yesterday and The Associated Press weighted price index of 35 commodities hit a new all-time peak of 196.24. Showing increases were wheat, corn, rye, cotton, flour, wool, butter, lambs, eggs, cocoa, and turpentine. There were declines in cattle, hogs, oats, rubber and linseed oil.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17—Eggless, poultryless and meatless days were described today by Rep. Anton Johnson (R-Ill.), a top-ranking member of the house agriculture committee, as "an awful blunder."

He told a reporter that hearings already held by the committee in its nationwide bus tour have "clearly demonstrated that such a program won't save an ounce of grain."

CIO REELECTS MURRAY CHIEF

Secure in His Control, Labor Leader Begins 8th Year as Organization Head.

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, Oct. 17—Philip Murray, the man who keeps the CIO from flying apart, was reelected President of the organization today by acclamation.

As secure in his post as ever, constantly praised as "our great leader" for the last five convention days, Murray begins his eighth year as CIO president.

The CIO convention on its final day staged the annual demonstration for Murray with cheering and band playing.

Jacob S. Potofsky, president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, called him "the greatest labor leader in the world," in a nominating speech.

The cheering, table-thumping and throwing of table cloths continued for 17 minutes and was halted only when a band began playing "The Star-Spangled Banner."

GREEN AGAIN HEADS AFL LABOR GROUPS

By The Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 17—Executive councilmen of the American Federation of Labor convene today to plan the organization of "labor's educational and political league," for its richly-financed fight against the Taft-Hartley law and all who propounded it.

The AFL convention itself adjourned at 4:02 p. m. yesterday with a unity plea by its re-elected, 74-year-old president William Green:

"Forget petty bickerings. I beg, I plead for unity, for solidarity!"

DAM AT DELAWARE NEARS COMPLETION

By The Associated Press

DELAWARE, O., Oct. 17—The Delaware dam, designed to protect this city and Columbus from floods as great as that in 1913, is 95 per cent complete, engineers who inspected the project reported today.

They estimated that residents in the dam area will receive the equivalent of $1.18 worth of flood protection for each dollar of the $7,500,000 spent on the project.

Contracts for erection of dikes and other works near Waldo, north of here, will be awarded after bids are opened next January, engineers reported. Land now is being purchased for flood easements in the reservoir area.

Plans call for maintaining a six-mile-long lake behind the dam, although it will be about 16 miles in length during flood stage.

Although Delaware and Columbus will be protected from damaging floods by the dam, engineers said it would not help Chillicothe, south of here, materially.

Summer flood damage will be lessened for farmlands in the Scioto valley north of Chillicothe and in the Olentangy river below the dam, however, it was explained.

The dam is 18,000 feet long and 90 feet high at its highest point above foundations.

Col. Alexander Neilson, chief of the Huntington (W. Va.) district, U. S. Army engineers, conducted the tour Wednesday for some 150 engineers, including a group from the central Ohio chapter, American Society of Civil Engineers.

RELIGIOUS PLAQUE STUDIO INCORPORATED IN COUNTY

The Christian Workers Studio, Inc., of Caledonia, was among the list of firms incorporated recently, according to an Associated Press report from Columbus. The Caledonia studio was incorporated with $25,000 worth of stock. Earl H. and Dorothy M. Sturtevant and Frank L. Yarger were listed as the incorporators. J. D. Williamson, Marion lawyer, was the legal advisor.

The studio has been operating for a number of years manufacturing religious wall plaques.

NEW STORM REPORTED

By The Associated Press

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 17—A tropical storm which the Miami weather bureau said "may become very dangerous," was reported about 125 miles north of central Puerto Rico today. It had winds of 35 to 45 miles an hour.

CITY TO PAUSE ON BURIAL DAY

First War Dead Expected To Reach Marion Monday or Tuesday.

A memorial tribute, symbolic of the city's respect for all dead of World War II, will be paid by Marion citizens when the bodies of the first war dead are returned here from their original overseas burial places.

Two from Marion who are among the first overseas dead to be returned home are due to arrive within a few days. They are Ira Clarence Howard, carpenter's mate 2/c, U. S. Navy, husband of Mrs. Shirley C. Howard of 215 Pearl street, and First Lieutenant Busby W. Sweney, U. S. Army Air Corps, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth F. Sweney of 627 Pearl street.

Word was received today from Distribution Center No. 7, Columbus General Depot, Columbus, O., where the bodies were sent following arrival at San Francisco, Calif., that tentative plans there are to send the two bodies to Marion Monday or Tuesday, and possibly together. The family's undertaker will be notified in advance of a time of departure and arrival.

Mayor Harry L. Dowler issued proclamation today proclaiming "the day of interment for the first of our returned overseas dead to be a day of solemn tribute in our City."

Five-Minute Pause

In keeping with this, all citizens of Marion are being asked to cease activity during the first five minutes of the funeral hour for the first to be interred. Flags are to be displayed in the business district with those flying from flagstaffs at half mast.

The flags before the Marion county honor roll at the courthouse will be put at half mast as soon as the bodies are in the city, and remain that way until after the burial.

The courthouse bell will be tolled during the five minute period of the first funeral hour, and the Marion Power Shovel Co. and the Huber Manufacturing Co. whistles will be blown at the beginning of the five minute period and at the end of the period.

The American Legion and other veterans organizations in the city are prepared to give military services if desired by the families.

Mayor's Proclamation

The proclamation issued by Mayor Dowler is as follows:

WHEREAS, the remains of many Youth of our City who gave their lives for their Country overseas in the late War will be arriving home for interment from time to time in the future; and

WHEREAS, the first of our overseas dead will be returned home within the week; and

WHEREAS, the citizens of Marion join in the bereavement of their loved ones and relatives, and wish to pay tribute and respect to all deceased veterans of World War II;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Harry L. Dowler, Mayor of the City of Marion, Ohio, do proclaim the day of interment for the first of our returned overseas dead to be a day of solemn tribute in our City, to the memory and honor of all our departed sons and loved ones who paid the supreme sacrifice of their lives in this late world conflict, in devotion to their Nation and our Nation and the welfare of mankind.

I implore all citizens of Marion to pay tribute and respect to the memory of all those fine young men at the commencement of the funeral hour for the first to be returned to their final resting places at home, by ceasing activity and offering silent tribute for a few moments wherever you may be, and prayer to Almighty God that their sacrifices shall not have been in vain.

I request that flags be displayed on that day in our business district and flags flying from flagstaffs in our City be displayed at half mast, and further that the bell of the Marion County Court House, known to all of them, be tolled during the funeral hour.

WITNESS my hand, at Marion, Ohio, this 16th day of October, A. D. 1947.

HARRY L. DOWLER,
Mayor of the City of Marion, Ohio.

Y-TEENS COUNCIL PLANS FOR YEAR

Advisors Hold Meeting at Ringer's Inn.

Plans for the year's work were discussed at a meeting of the Advisory Council and faculty advisors of the Y-Teens of the Y.W.C.A. held at a dinner and business meeting Wednesday night at Ringer's Inn. The members pledged their unanimous support and will participate in the campaign to raise funds for the support of the Marion Community Foundation of which the Y-Teens is a participating agency.

It was announced that several of the council members and advisors will attend a Y-Teen conference to be held at Columbus Saturday. Letters were read from several of the Y-Teen girls who attended summer camps at Camp Wilson and, near Westerville and Camp Shawendewin near Canton.

Activities of the forthcoming year will include speakers for the various meetings.

Mrs. Charles H. Isaly, president of the Women's Council, announced the following sponsors for Y-Teen groups in the various schools of the city:

Mrs. George Alber, Mrs. Carl Leffler, Mrs. Charles H. Isaly, Mrs. J. H. Harmon, Mrs. Richard Plant, Harding High; Mrs. Edgar Barnhart, Mrs. Earl N. Hale, Mrs. Howard Swink, Mrs. E. G. Siefert, Mrs. C. Z. Zachman, Edison Senior High; Mrs. Paul Bachman, Mrs. Howard Geer, Mrs. Ray R. King, Mrs. J. E. Scandling, Mrs. George Turner, Edison Junior High; Mrs. Frank M. Foster, Mrs. William Hamor, Mrs. Clare Smith, Mrs. O. M. Young, Mrs. Charles Oborn, Central; Mrs. Edson Bush, Mrs. Merle Hamilton, Mrs. E. E. Holt, Mrs. Vernon Street, Mrs. Roger Keyes, Vernon Junior High.

First Meeting Held By Geo. Washington P.-T.A.

The first meeting of the school year of the George Washington P.-T. A. was held Tuesday evening at the school, with Mrs. George Schwab, vice president, presiding.

Plans were made for the unit to sponsor a paper sale Oct. 23, and persons contributing are being asked to have the bundles of paper tied when they are collected by the children. Mrs. Schwab was elected a delegate to attend the Ohio P.-T. A. convention Oct. 27-29 in Cincinnati, and membership in the unit was reported at 230 members.

Devotions were conducted by Mrs. Clem Hershey, and two piano selections were presented by Joyce Butterworth. Carl Campbell, a representative of the Marion Community Foundation, talked on the fund drive which is to get underway Monday and urged support of the program.

Miss Helen Earl of Columbus, assitant secretary of the Ohio Fire Underwriters Association, gave a brief talk and showed a moving picture entitled "Crimes of Carelessness."

GOLF AWARDS MADE AT Y'S MEN'S MEETING

The Y's Men club met at the Y.M.C.A. Wednesday night. Highlights of the meeting were the presentation of golf trophies to the winner of the recent county tournament and a talk by A. T. Allen, visiting teacher of Marion city schools.

Donald Preuninger, chairman of the golf tournament, presented Newell T. Minard with both the Y's men's trophy and the Marion Star trophy as the winner of the first flight of the tourney. The club trophy is a permanent award made each year and the Marion Star trophy is held by the winner for a period of one year. To hold the Star trophy permanently, a golfer must win it three successive years. This is the first time that Minard has won The Star award.

Mr. Allen spoke on the operation of settlement houses, with particular reference to the proposed Silver street project.

Love's Perilous Path

By ADELE GARRISON

DICKY turned to Lillian, but she already was at his elbow, and he handed the receiver to her.

"Yes, Harry," she said, and then listened intently to what he was saying.

"I'll find out at once," she said finally, and turned back to us.

"Harry wants to know if you two can come over to our house—'for cocktails,' is the way he put it. He says some relatives and friends of all of us have dropped in."

"That must mean—" I began, but Lillian held up a protesting hand.

"I gather," he said, "that there isn't any time for discussion. They—whoever they are, and we can guess—want to know the answer."

"Of course you can go," Katharine said, "and at once. Mary is perfectly all right until morning, and as soon as you're gone, I'll take Olina to bring Faith down. I'll take care of her."

"But what excuse will you give Olina for their going away?" Lillian asked. "From something the 'Chief' dropped, I gathered that she, of all people, must not guess that anything unusual is going on."

The look that Dicky gave me at that no longer held mere conjecture as to the identity of the fugitive, but a conviction, which I shared.

A Good Liar

"I'm a good liar," Katharine said placidly. "I shall say that Dicky's mother took a sudden notion that she would like to see him at the hospital about some business matter that she had neglected, and that Madge decided to go along. I shall warn Olina not to tell Faith that, but to fix up some other excuse for her. I think I can manage that one also. I'll tell you what it is, where you went and what you did, when you come home. Then you'll be all primed for Faith's questions."

"I haven't time for thanks or encomiums," Lillian said. "Please consider that you have my whole repertory. Get on your old gray bonnet, Madge, and, Dicky, you order a taxi—one whose driver the hotel starter knows. We'll be on our way."

There was urgency in her voice and manner, and we hurried our pace in deference to it. In another few minutes we were in a taxi and hurrying across town to the house in which Harry and Lillian lived, the house which had held so much melodrama during World War II.

With my mind full of the experiences I had shared with Lillian's winsome daughter in that house, I put an earnest question to her.

"How is Marion?" I asked.

"As well as she can be," she answered, "with the uncertainty she has about Ronald."

"Why," I said, "I thought Ronald and Bob Stanton had been rescued from that Japanese prison!"

"They were," she said grimly, "but they have been in the hospital ever since, and we can get no authentic word either from them or from the authorities as to what shape they're in."

"I'm afraid," she went on, "that there's a conspiracy of silence—and that there's something seriously the matter with Ronald.

"Oh, Madge!" she burst out. "Sometimes I think I shall go crazy with the uncertainty. Marion, thank God, does not realize all the possibilities that I am visioning. Suppose he is blind, or minus legs or arms, or faceless—"

Took Her Hands

Dicky leaned forward from the seat facing us, and took her twisting hands in his.

"Stop that gab pronto!" he ordered. "I never knew you to go off the beam this way before. 'Conspiracy of silence,' my hat! Do you suppose, even if Ronald wanted to keep Marion in ignorance of his injuries—and mind you, I'm not admitting he has any that aren't recoverable—that he could silence the hospital authorities?"

"I don't know," she said piteously, and then I put a question of my own.

"Hasn't his mother heard anything?" I asked.

She stirred irresolutely.

"I haven't heard from Helena since that session at the farmhouse," she said. "I know it is wrong of me, but I—I can't forgive her for the things she said then. And Harry is even more implacable than I am."

"I don't blame either of you," Dicky said quickly, and I nodded assent. Too fresh in both our memories was that scene at the farmhouse when Helena Brixton, mother of the man Lillian's daughter expected to marry, flashed out at Marion with cruel, scathing words which she took back only at the savage insistence of her husband, whose life Marion had saved.

"If I had been a woman in your shoes," Dicky went on, "that dame, Helena, wouldn't have had a hair left on her scalp."

"I felt like that," Lillian admitted. "But there we are at the door of our house. I wonder who are the 'company' Harry promised?"

MARION GROUP ATTENDS LIMA W.S.C.S. MEETING

Mrs. J. Malcolm Strelitz, chairman, and Mrs. George E. Planck, vice chairman of the Marion Cancer society, and Dr. A. E. Morrison have returned from Columbus where they attended a two-day statewide training conference for persons actively interested in the work of the American Cancer society, Tuesday and Wednesday.

The conference theme was "Cancer—What Price Tag for Ohio?" "Projects for Local Workers" was the topic discussed by Dr. J. H. Lazzari of Cleveland and Dr. Charles A. Doan, dean of medicine at Ohio State university, had as his subject, "What Do We Know About Cancer?" Dr. Doan explained the functions of the cancer society and the growth of the research being carried on. Other speakers included Mrs. Joseph Blaney, chairman of the Cancer society of New York and Mrs. John F. Harvey, regional director of Ohio, and V. E. Hufford of Toledo conducted the round-table discussion. Art Robinson, director of the community health service, and Tom O'Connell of Columbus, talked on publicity.

Harding Class of 1936 Planning for Reunion

Plans are being made by a committee of members of the 1936 Harding High school graduation class for a class reunion and dance to be held in the near future. A meeting of the committee was held Wednesday night at the Y. M. C. A. to discuss plans for the event.

At another meeting scheduled for Wednesday, Oct. 22, further plans will be discussed. All members of the class will be contacted by mail and notified of the date for the affair.

Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Ruby are chairmen of the committee in charge, assisted by George Conroy, David Isaly, Robert Minard, Mrs. Karl Betchtle, Mrs. John Uncapher and Mrs. Don Creviston.

EMPLOYES RECEIVE QUAKER OATS REPORT

Deals with Affairs Affecting Company's Workers.

Marion employes of the Quaker Oats Company recently were mailed the company's annual employe report. Illustrated, the 10 page report outlines wages, job security, a bonus plan, sales policy and benefits. It gives every worker a clear view of the company organization.

R. Douglas Stuart, Quaker president, accompanied the report with a letter underlining the special need for teamwork during the next few years. "There is only one way to make sure Quaker can go on providing you with high wages and liberal benefits," he said. "We must all pitch in to produce, distribute and sell so reasonably that we can meet our competitors' prices."

Mr. Stuart went on to point out that, through the wage profit sharing plan, over $6,200,000 had been distributed to employes since the plans' inauguration over twelve years ago and in summing up the company's benefits, he indicated that in the last year alone more than $785,000 had gone to employes in profit sharing, $340,000 for paid vacations, and $142,000 for Social Security taxes to provide for employes in their old age.

EISENHOWER DISCLAIMS INTEREST IN POLITICS

By The Associated Press

MANCHESTER, N. H., Oct. 17—General Dwight D. Eisenhower says that he does not want "anything to do with politics" and that he has no personal acquaintance with persons sponsoring a "draft Eisenhower" movement.

The army chief of staff made the statement at a news conference here yesterday during which he said no name on the sponsoring committee "rings a bell with me."

TRIAL OF DOCTOR ENTERS FIFTH DAY

By The Associated Press

LA GRANGE, Tex., Oct. 17—The state's case against Dr. Lloyd L. Ross, on trial here in the death of one of four persons he is charged with killing, neared an end today.

District Attorney J. Lee Dittert told Judge J. R. Fuchs that the state would produce "two or three more witnesses" today, fifth day of the sensational murder trial.

Defense testimony was expected to follow immediately.

Ann York, 13-year-old lone survivor of the May 25 ambush slaying in Comal county, and Sheriff W. A. (Doc) Scholl of New Braunfels, provided the principal testimony yesterday.

The frail, brown-eyed school girl told how a man stopped her father's car on a ranch road near her home and opened fire, killing Willard York, 39, her father; Gertrude York, 43, her mother; John, 9, her brother, and Mrs. Mary York, 67, her grandmother.

Ann, who was wounded but managed to escape, pointed from the witness stand at the 42-year-old Harvard-trained surgeon and identified him as the man who killed them.

She said her mother and father begged not to be shot.

The Ohio-born doctor, who was an intern in Cleveland and New York before going to San Antonio, where he made a success, remained stoical.

FUEL OIL USER...

it pays to make sure of a

FULL WINTER'S SUPPLY!

Many people whose fuel oil needs seemed to them to be relatively small have asked, "Does the warning about fuel oil supply include us, too?" And our answer is "yes," it includes everyone in Ohio who expects to use fuel oil this winter!

If you are planning to buy a room heater or so-called "space heater," check up on the supply before you buy, to be certain of a warm home this winter! Be sure to have some fuel oil supplier's advance assurance that you will be supplied all winter long.

What Sohio is doing

To assure our already-contracted home heating customers of their required Sohio-Heat for next winter, we have reluctantly ceased taking on new oil heating contracts.

And, all through the summer Sohio people have been preparing for this winter. Nothing that would help or better serve our Sohio-Heat customers, we believe, has been left undone.

They Haven't Learned Yet

A BRITISH military government public opinion poll in Hamburg and Schleswig-Holstein shows 60 per cent of the Germans in those areas still believe national socialism was a good idea. The majority pointed to the third Reich's social welfare plans, the high employment rate and the great construction projects. They said Germany's greatest steps forward were made from 1933 to 1937.

A lost war and its attendant privation apparently haven't done much to alter the German mind. It still relishes regimentation, still accepts the secret police as a necessary adjunct to an orderly existence. It condones concentration camps and drumhead courts if in return it gets food, express highways and promises of volkswagens.

It has been said there is a vast job of education to be done in Germany. The Germans have just been through a grueling course in experience's dear school. On the basis of this poll, they don't deserve a passing mark.

One Exposition Coming Up

NEVER a city to pass up an occasion for a celebration or a parade, New York is preparing to observe the golden jubilee of its incorporation as a five-borough city. Grover Whalen has the matter well in hand, having been at work since last May, and the jubilee is scheduled to open next April for a seven-month run.

There will be nothing garish or carnival-like about this jubilee, its sponsors predict. It will not be large, but they promise it will be memorable. A golden-canopied moving sidewalk undulating on stilts will carry visitors the 11-block length of the display, which will utilize the exclusive precincts of the Park Avenue mall.

While primarily designed to give New Yorkers a keener civic awareness, the celebration will draw thousands of visitors who recall their adventures within the shadows of the Trylon and the perisphere at the 1939-40 World's fair. The diligent fair-goers of those days, who remember the Flushing Meadows as the land of the aching dogs, will be happy to know they'll be propelled along at this exposition on a moving sidewalk. This rates as the biggest improvement in expositions since the invention of the wheel—the unnumbered wheel, that is.

Rodent Rapacity

THE agriculture department estimates that rodents will destroy 200,000,000 bushels of this year's grain crops, more than one-third the amount we are planning to export to Europe. Beyond that, there is vast rodent damage to other food stored in warehouses. All in all, it is estimated our rodent damage bill exceeds $2,000,000,000 annually and the figure is increasing.

Because rats and mice succeed in keeping out of sight, their numbers and the extent of their depredations aren't generally realized. America's waterfronts, sewers, lofts and old buildings house a rodent population equal to the nation's human population. Rats and mice rate high as potential disease carriers.

The time is coming when unrelenting war will have to be waged against rodents. They can be exterminated but it will take more than four-color posters and the beating of publicity drums. It will take more than editorials like this. It may even require a law making it a punishable offense to maintain a rodent-infested building. When we resolve to wipe them out they will be wiped out.

Three Short Years

IT IS October, 1944. The presidential campaign is at its height. Franklin D. Roosevelt, whose physical fitness to serve another term is under question, is running for reelection on the claim that he is the only man in the United States who can carry on the delicate negotiations with Josef Stalin and Winston Churchill. As for his physical fitness, the nation is assured that he is in normal health.

It is October, 1947, three years later. James F. Byrnes, who was on the inside of the Roosevelt administration, is publishing his memoirs. In the first installment of the newspaper serial version of the memoirs he tells about the Yalta conference—the first post-election negotiation between President Roosevelt and Marshal Stalin and Prime Minister Churchill.

"So far as I could see," Byrnes recalls, "the president had made little preparation for the Yalta conference. . . . Not until the day before we landed at Malta did I learn that we had on board a complete file of studies and recommendations prepared by the state department. . . . I am sure the failure to study them while enroute was due to the president's illness.

Scanning the Record

By George E. Sokolsky

What John L. Lewis Ought To Know.

JOHN L. LEWIS, better than any other man, knows the danger of Communist penetration in the trade unions of this country. When he formed the CIO he was in need of a large number of skilled organizers, propagandists, writers, and similar smart boys. He found them among the Communists and left wingers. Although he had never permitted Communists to play any part in the United Mine Workers, he took on this crew to the detriment of American labor and the American people.

They surrounded him. They introduced the syndicalistic sitdown strike. They applied Bolshevist methods to labor union organization. They managed to take over about a dozen of the CIO unions, some of which, like the U.E., they still absolutely control. The CIO general headquarters became an organ of Communist propaganda and union funds were used for this purpose. Trade unionism, in the CIO, became strictly political. J. Raymond Walsh, chief apologist for the CIO, put it this way: ". . . Essentially the New Deal and the CIO are politico-economic twins, with a common heritage but different temperaments. The one had to come before the other could win its right to exist; both issued from the womb of an unhappy, unbalanced capitalist democracy."

Uncomfortably Located

Lewis found himself in unpleasant, un-American company. In particular he was required to support a war which he believed would be disastrous for America and he was required to serve the political purposes of Franklin D. Roosevelt. By 1940, he had been reduced to the position of a hanger-on to a political machine.

It was too much for Lewis. In the 1940 campaign he declared his personal independence. The skids were put under him and out he went. The Communists, who are a minority in the CIO, took over. Lewis has seen his successor, Phil Murray, a man of religious scruples and personal integrity, become a prisoner of this Communist machine. All the apologists for Murray cannot explain away the activities of Lee Pressman, DeCaux, Emspak, Quill, Bridges and others. The CIO did not limit itself to the field of American trade unionism; it became a supporter of Russian policy in the international field and actually joined the World Federation of Trade Unions, an organ of international trade Communism that the AFL rejected.

John L. Lewis knows all this. Of course, he also knows that it ought to be unnecessary for an American to take an oath of loyalty, that every American is presumed to be loyal until proved disloyal. He is right, in principle, when he ojects to taking an oath asserting that he is not a Communist. No one even suspects him of being a Communist.

Not Always Recognizable

But he ought also to know from his experience that these creatures creep into everything, that they change their names, disguise their affiliations, deny what is true and assert what is false in conformity to Lenin's dictum that to lie for the cause is a virtue.

He knows that this country, in another war, would be at the mercy of the U.E., which could cripple us by striking General Electric, Westinghouse, Allis-Chalmers, Radio Corporation of America and similar organizations which manufacture essential commodities of war. He knows that Harry Bridges and Mike Quill could so tie up our transportation system that this country could not move men and supplies efficiently. He knows that radio operators and telegraphers could strike in the interest of a foreign foe. He knows that the valiant fight that Walter Reuther is making to keep the Communists out of control of our automobile, tractor and tank manufacturing is a nip-and-tuck situation and that if he should fail, our wonderful productive record in the last war might not be paralleled in the next one.

Can this country continue to risk its future? All that the Taft-Hartley law demands is a statement of fact. If a labor leader says that he is not a Communist and he proves to be one, he is open to a charge of perjury which is a punishable offense. That is a mild enough protective in the face of what we have seen Stalin's agents do in every country of Europe and Asia.

A Female Prerogative And Not a Royal One

It has been announced that Princess Elizabeth will take the oath to "obey" Lt. Philip Mountbatten when they are married next month even though, once she assumes the throne, he will be her subject.

What do they mean "once she assumes the throne?"

It isn't only in royal weddings that the word "obey" is as much a formality as "Greetings" on a subpoena.

The modern bride takes the marriage vow with more reservations than a convention hotel.

If people took the wedding ceremony literally, they'd have to change the wording to: "Till Reno us do part."

No sir, Mountbatten didn't have to marry a princess to put himself in a position to be ordered around. Politicians like to talk about every man being a king, but—once he walks that last, long aisle—every man's a subject.

'My Congress, Oh My Congress!'

By Joseph Alsop

PARIS, Oct. 17—An odd picture remains obstinately uppermost in the mind of any traveler leaving Paris in these unhappy days. It is not one of those images of beauty which have made Paris the glory and the envy of the western world for three hundred years. Rather, it is the picture of a distraught American policy-maker, nervously dodging issues with the abused air of a sparring partner who suddenly finds himself in the same ring with Joe Louis in a fit of temper.

Perhaps it is too early to make judgments after only six weeks of exploration of the workings of American policy in this moment of crisis. Yet it is hard not to feel that it is high time for us to grow up.

Our policy making has not grown up as yet. It resembles the behavior of a man who has suffered from a bad heart from early childhood, and has therefore always been wrapped in pink cotton wool by an affectionate family. He may reach adulthood in years. But when he is faced with hard tasks of difficult decisions, he sinks back upon the nearest sofa clutching his chest and murmuring, "My heart, oh my poor heart!" The makers of American policy have the same tendency, except that the burden of their moan is, "My congress, oh my congress, oh my dreadful congress!"

Comedy in Paris

Even so able and distinguished an American public servant as former Under Secretary of State Will Clayton gave several notable performances of this little comedy during the Paris conference on the Marshall plan. In Washington, politically inexperienced underlings passed out the word that Europe "wasn't really trying" because 16 national delegations and 1,000 experts failed to write a blue-print Utopia. Meanwhile in Paris, Clayton represented the American congress as a sort of strange wild beast which could only be soothed by meals of poppyseed cake or some other sleep-producing delicacy. The result was the worst real fault in the Marshall plan report: the foolishly optimistic assumptions as to future economic trends which the Paris conferenees were forced to adopt, in order to achieve a total cost figure that "congress would stand for."

The theory seems to be that the American congress, not to say the people, was incapable of understanding hard facts and taking appropriate action. This theory has been again put forward, more recently, during the rather self-important journeyings of Secretary of the Treasury John Snyder. Such things do not make pleasant hearings for an ordinary American. What is worse, the indecision and postponement of vital action resulting from the persistent fear of putting hard facts squarely before congress and people may now easily produce appalling reverses in the great world contest with the Soviet Union.

"Mr. X" Under Fire

The congress and the country must grasp that we have embarked on a troublesome and painful job in seeking to contain the Soviet Union's ambitious imperialism. In this connection, a sustained attack has just been published on state department planner George Kennan's remarkable "Mr. X" article on Soviet-American relations. Kennan's whole point was that it was utterly impossible to reach a real settlement with the Soviet Union as now internally constituted. Discarding the other grim alternatives—surrender and preventive war—Kennan therefore advocated containment of the Soviets until future changes in the Soviet state should render a settlement feasible.

Kennan's proofs of the impossibility of a Soviet-American settlement at this time have been somewhat lightly, incompletely refuted. But Kennan has been sternly taken to task for not seeking such a settlement at this time, and above all because the containment policy is said to be impractical. This reporter happens to believe that Kennan's analysis of Soviet policy, supported by the greatest weight of learning and experience of any modern diplomat, is in truth irrefutable. Be this as it may, however, the essential present point is that the policy of containing the Soviets, far from seeming impractical, has never looked more like working if we only put our backs into it.

This is one of the strongest impressions that Europe makes on this reporter after 12 months' absence. Great things have already been accomplished. Twelve months ago, members of the little group of experts surrounding Secretary of State James F. Byrnes at the Paris conference of last summer freely admitted the odds were at least seven that the Communist party would ultimately come to power in Italy. Grave fears were also felt for France, and elsewhere in the world there were many situations that appeared almost hopeless.

Danger in Italy

Now, however, the only danger of Communism in Italy is that we in the United States will not give the Italians bread to keep alive this winter. In France also, there is no more talk of France's imaginary role as mediator in the world contest instead, one is told on all sides that "France has made her choice." Again, the only danger in France is American inaction in the face of France's desperate need. From elsewhere in the world, the report is the same.

The trouble is that in order to do our job, something approaching total mobilization of our resources is now most urgently required. Otherwise we shall be in the position of the spoiled child-man who fell back upon the sofa, crying "My heart, oh my heart!" when informed that the house was burning down. He saved his heart from any undue strain but he was unfortunately consumed in the flames.

GUTTER DIPLOMACY

C. I. O. 12 Years Old and Going Strong

But John L. Lewis Returned to AFL After 1940.

THE Congress of Industrial Organizations meeting in Boston this week is 12 years old. It was organized in November, 1935, following the decision of the American Federation of Labor convention in the previous October to turn down the minority report of a special committee set up to study ways and means of organizing unskilled workers.

Moving spirit in the split that resulted was John L. Lewis, now back in the A. F. L. fold. As Lewis went in 1935, so inevitably went his United Mine Workers, also back in the A. F. L. fold today. Second largest union to help found C. I. O. was the Ladies Garment Workers. It, too, is back in A. F. L. today.

Eight unions were represented at the organization meeting in 1935. They claimed a total membership of 912,000, but almost half the total was composed of coal miners. The C. I. O., as it was known from the outset, stood at first for Committee for Industrial Organization; the name was changed to Congress of Industrial Organizations in 1938. Its central purpose was "to promote organization of the workers in the mass production and unorganized industries of the nation."

Besides the Ladies Garment Workers (David Dubinsky) and United Mine Workers (John Lewis), another important union that split away from A. F. L. in 1935 was Amalgamated Clothing Workers (Sidney Hillman).

All the dissident unions were suspended from A. F. L. by its executive council in the following August, on the grounds of dual unionism—a serious offense in A. F. L. tradition. The council's action was affirmed by the A.F.L. convention in the autumn of 1936.

C. I. O.'s first great undertaking was the drive to organize the steel industry, which reached a violent climax in 1937, after U. S. Steel Corp., had reached an agreement with leaders of the drive, causing "Little Steel"—Republic, Bethlehem and Youngstown Sheet & Tube—to demonstrate its independence. Loss of the strike against these companies was credited largely to one man, Tom M. Girdler, president of Republic.

Previously, another C. I. O. union, United Automobile Workers, had used the same kind of a squeeze play in the automobile industry, signing up General Motors and the Chrysler Co. at the expense of the "independents." It was apparent then, as it is now, that C. I. O.'s strategy is to play off the principal members of an industry against its subordinate members—the well-known rule of divide and conquer.

When C.I.O. held its first convention as a permanent organization in 1938 it claimed a membership of 4,038,000. But trouble had begun. Dubinsky balked at taking his union into the Congress of Industrial Organizations, now clearly a rival of A. F. L., instead of an organizing committee. He accused it of fomenting dual unionism.

Lewis, head of the new organization, was still giving fulsome praise to President Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1938; two years later, he was supporting Wendell Willkie and couldn't say anything mean enough about the leader of the New Deal administration. He promised to resign if Roosevelt won re-election and kept his promise.

One Man's Opinion

John Lewis made out worse than the vice president who tangled with Fred Allen . . . and Allen had better material.

I hear that when Lewis got through working out on his brother V-P's in the great fraternity, Taft wired old Bill Green "had enough?"

Anyway cancellation of state dinners at the White House will save food as the people will eat dinner elsewhere . . . Is that clear to everyone?

Hoover once set public example for conserving grain by ordering White House horses transferred to Ft. Myer.

Coolidge mildly observed, "I suppose they'll stop eatin' when they get there."

But one thing has been clarified . . . Meat by-products can be eaten on meatless days. Now if we can find a way to get the by products without disturbing the cattle . . . !

Most of those meatless Tuesday and Chicke less-Eggless Thursday menus coming from hi places are strictly for the Young Women's Cla in Dainty But Repulsive Cooking. Any ol fashioned mother or grandmother who could whip up something sturdier in a crisis wou have handed in her kitchen-stove license a torn up her pantry operator's permit.

* * *

Put either ma or grandma on slim provisio and they would have come through with no of those White House "Coffee Mallows" of t "take 15 marshmallows and cut into strips wi a pair of wet scissors" ideas or that "Sausa Sweet Potato Scallop" one in which you a asked to take a half pound of sausage and wh into some sort of a gruel via three apples, tw potatoes and plenty of salt water. Not on yo life!

Ma didn't want the old man leaving hom and the kids taking bites out of the dog. Sh saved food by the simple process of makin good grub go further. Her idea was to STRETC the food, not ABANDON IT.

She would make a chicken go three or fou days. It was never a Thursday affair anyhow And the idea of linking up of meat with Tuesda would have bothered her, as she could alway make a little beef stretch over Wednesday Thursday and Friday, and seem a new dis every time.

When things got real tough, the tricks sh could do with a shinbone and a soup bone, cook ing up a soup that was a square meal and starting out on Monday would still be turning up with no complaints Thursday night.

The Long Look

By Truman Twill

Someone sneered as we passed, "Get the new long look on that character." Matter of fact, mister, we'd noticed it ourselves, and it isn't new.

It's nothing, really, just an optical illusion created by the lady we were with. But it's a pleasant illusion for a man these days, the long look. Some of us were getting pretty fed up with the father-daughter look.

For most men, the long look came years ago—long before the Paris fashion designers were persuaded to make obsolete every female wardrobe in money-hungry America. It was composed of matters beyond their control.

It started with a neck that resembled the meager Christmas presents left in a gray-white stocking hung up by a spindly little girl in an orphanage. Some say a man's neck looks like two bits worth of hard candy in a brown paper sack, but that's in the summertime—a healthy tan.

The long look for men continued up the front of the face, assisted by the lugubrious expressions that came from wondering how to make a family budget that wouldn't blow up at the end of six months of free spending. For the last few years this has been no trouble to achieve. All a man needs to think about is the price of groceries per day multiplied by seven and compared with his weekly income after the politicians and do-gooders have taken out their juicy bites. He gets the long look in a hurry.

The crowning glory of the long look as exemplified in the appearance of the ordinary American male is the up-swept hair-do. When the distance from the bridge of the nose to the hair-line is the same as the distance between the thumb and outstretched index finger, mister, you've got the long look in spite of yourself. Your face goes all the way up to there, even if you leave your hat on. And no hat can be left on permanently.

No matter how grown up your missus or your tootsy-pootsy may seem to look in her new sun-erdrooper skirt, all you need to do these days is remove your hat, think of the price of groceries and look as lugubrious as she does. Mind you, we're not complaining, just making an observation—and happy one.

Because for years most men have dreaded the contrast between themselves and women who managed to look most of the time like their own daughters, or a little younger. The painful contrast is being wiped out by the new fashions. A man has a fighting chance to look not more than 10 years older than his wife. He has a chance to look the same age as his tootsy-pootsy. From a quarter of a mile away, he even has a chance to look like a proper companion for his own daughter. Everybody has the long look now.

CLUB HEARS TALK ON PAINT MAKING

Columbus Man Speaks at Kiwanis Club Meeting.

Cornelius Tracy, representing the Hanna Paint Co. of Columbus, spoke at the Kiwanis luncheon meeting Thursday noon at Harding Hotel. He talked about the origin of paint, the advances of the paint industry, and of the many ingredients gathered from all over the world, that are used in the manufacture of paint.

He was introduced by Robert Graney, program chairman for the month. Ralph Carhart, vice president presided.

Rev. M. E. Hollensen, pastor of Emanuel Lutheran church, and William W. Charle, manager of McMillen Feed Mill, were introduced as new members.

Four junior Kiwanians, elected by St. Mary and Harding High schools, attended the meeting. They are Robert Stuber and Richard Schuler of St. Mary and James Coss and James Hill of Harding.

Marion delegates to the four-day Kiwanis convention in Columbus this weekend, E. L. Cleveland, president of the club, Dr. F. A. Stengel, past lieutenant governor of the Fourth district, Dr. G. G. Nuetzel, chairman of the church committee, and J. D. Torrance, secretary of the club, gave reports of the convention.

Dr. Nuetzel explained the operation of the Marion Kiwanis "March to Church in March" program to the Columbus convention, and told of the Kiwanis sponsored visit to Marion on Sept. 27-28 of R. G. LaTourneau.

A contribution was taken for the Red Cross drive for money to buy Christmas gifts for Marines.

Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. J. Belmont Mosser of St. Mary, Pa. Mr. Mosser is treasurer of Kiwanis International and attended the weekend Columbus convention. Roy Collier of Atlanta, Ga., also was a guest.

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

Blood Pressure

The best thing the high blood pressure patient can do is to learn to live with his disorder without fear. While realizing that it is something which should not be ignored, he should be equally aware of the fact that much improvement is possible if he follows the rules laid down for him by his doctors.

As a matter of fact, many patients with high blood pressure live for many years and in the end the normal span of life may not be much shortened.

In any case to worry about high blood pressure is certain to make it worse and yet, this is just what many people with high blood pressure do. They tend to become very much upset if they learn that their pressure goes upward, even a few points. This is needless anxiety, for nobody's blood pressure is fixed but fluctuates widely from day to day under the influence of a number of things such as the amount of rest and exercise, the kind of diet and the incidence of emotional excitement.

Unfortunately, the temperament of many persons with high blood pressure is not the sort which leads to quiet or restful living. Many of these persons are energetic and overactive. They do not relax easily and try to do too much.

For such persons to give up their work entirely is often bad, as it leaves them with nothing to do but fret and worry about themselves. If the work does not demand strenuous exertion, often, shortening of the working hours is beneficial and is sufficient. The type of work which is quiet and requires no particular exertion it often helpful.

The sharing of responsibilities and of domestic worries is also advisable if possible.

The patient with high blood pressure should get into the habit of going to bed early. Reading in bed may promote this habit of early retirement.

Week ends should be restful. Tiring trips by automobile will do more harm than good. Some patients may be helped by spending one day a week in bed, or at least a part of a day. Vacations should be as long and restful as possible.

Insofar as diet is concerned, the most important thing is moderation. There is no value in eliminating red meat and salt from the diet except in cases in which the high blood pressure is accompanied by a kidney infection, in which instance restriction of salt may be advantageous.

If the patient is overweight, a reduction in weight may be beneficial, although this, in itself, may not cause a drop in the blood pressure. However, the loss of weight reduces the work of the heart to some extent.

Many doctors do not think that coffee, tea, and the use of alcoholic beverages are of any particular harm. Since alcohol has the tendency to dilate or relax the blood vessels, it may be of some mild benefit.

Moderate exercise is helpful, but exercises should not be taken to the point of fatigue. Walking would seem to be the best form of exercise.

Warm baths are also helpful, but swimming and too much cold water should be avoided.

I have outlined a diet for use in high blood pressure, which may be of some help in following the physician's advice. I shall be glad to send a copy of this information to all those who write enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Names will not be used.

While we have no means of curing high blood pressure of the kind which accounts for nine out of ten cases, the faithful following, under a doctor's supervision, of such a regime as that outlined above, will usually prevent the condition from growing worse, and thus often prolong life for a long time.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

L. B.: I have a brother in the hospital for tuberculosis. He sent me three of his sweaters for my boy, which he wore. Would it be safe to use them?

Answer: The sweaters should be disinfected by thorough dry cleaning, or by washing with soap and water, and aired in the sunshine before they are used.

NAVY CLUB PLANS OPEN HOUSE EVENT

Open house will be held the evening of Oct. 27 in the American Legion Dugout by the Navy club, according to plans announced at the Monday night meeting. All veterans are invited to attend. A mobile unit showing a Jap U boat will be on display Saturday and Sunday under the sponsorship of the National organization of the Navy club.

Members approved action of the Navy club executive staff on the Taft, Ellender, Wagner bill favoring full loans on homes for veterans. They also favored keeping tax collected on gasoline sold to motorists in a road fund instead of the general fund. Harlan Pickett and Alfred Whittington were appointed to serve as members of the veterans council.

Plans were completed for the sale of anchors on Oct. 24 and 25. Mr. Whittington is chairman in charge of arrangements. Proceeds from the anchor sale will go to the veterans in Navy and veterans hospitals.

Life Underwriters Hold Monthly Meeting

The Marion Life Underwriters association held its monthly meeting at the Y. M. C. A. at noon Thursday. Russel S. At this time last minute details will be worked out and the workers will receive final instructions, together with their working kit. The county house-to-house canvas will be under the direction of Cletus Uhl.

The last of the city ward meetings was held last night at Vernon Junior High school when workers in Wards 5 and 6 met to discuss plans and receive instructions and materials.

"Shares in Marion's Future" is the campaign theme song and through the house to house canvass it is the aim of the workers to contact every individual family in the city and county during the drive which will get under way Oct. 20 and extend through Oct 31.

The "kick-off" meeting will be held Monday night at 8 30 o'clock at the Y M C A. and the final report meeting is scheduled for Friday night, Oct 31

Weddings

Announcement is being made of the marriage of Miss Bonnie Litteral, daughter of Mr. and Mrs Stanley Litteral of Big Island, and Lowell Cooperider, son of Mrs L B. Cooperider of 255 North Prospect street.

The single ring ceremony was read Saturday, Oct 4, at 3 p. m. at the home of Rev. Ralph W Knoop of Prospect.

For her wedding, the bride chose a street length dress of aqua with which she combined brown accessories. RUBBER FIRMS FEAR SURPLUS Company Heads Lay Plans for Action in Anticipated Overabundance.

By DAVID J. WILLKIE
AP Automotive Editor

AKRON, O., Oct. 17—The nation's rubber and tire industry, catching up with civilian demand for its product, will use approximately 1,045,000 tons of rubber this year and already is disturbed over the probability of an early world surplus.

This is the viewpoint of spokesmen for the rubber industry in this capital of the rubber and tire manufacturing business, who point out that far-reaching economic and social problems are inevitable with a world surplus of rubber.

They estimate that next year's consumption of rubber, both natural and 'American made,' will drop off to about 870,000 tons as a backlog of unfilled orders is levelled off.

Approximately half the rubber used this year—and next—will be of the synthetic 'American made' type.

Want Plants Retained

The tire manufacturers quite generally want the facilities for producing artificial rubber retained as a matter of national protection.

They declare that American scientists who started from scratch just before the war in producing synthetic have "not yet gotten started on the development of American made rubber."

'The problems remaining to be solved," said one of them today, 'cannot be licked unless a certain amount of that type of rubber is retained in production."

Heat Is Drawback

The same industry spokesman said that 90 per cent of all the handicaps to the fullest use of synthetic rubber would disappear when the tire industry chemists can work into the heat dissipating properties of natural rubber.

Currently, under governmental regulation, the tire industry is using approximately 77 per cent of synthetic and 23 per cent of natural rubber in the more popular size automobile tires.

In the larger size car and truck casings the percentages are almost reversed with a heavier proportion of natural rubber used because of the greater heat generated in larger tires.

Church Charters Bus To Carry Worshipers

A special arrangements has been made by Emmanuel Baptist church, beginning Sunday morning, for free bus service to and from the church at North Main and Fairview streets. This was planned because of inconvenience caused many who attend services at the church by having to change buses to reach the north end of the city where the church is located.

A bus of the Marion Rapid Transit Co., chartered by the church for the purpose, will take worshipers directly to the church. Passengers will be taken to the church in time for Bible school and will return by the same route following the church service. The bus may be boarded at the nearest convenient corner.

Leaving Madison avenue at 8:45 a. m., the bus will travel west on Wilson to Jefferson, north to Adams, west to Polk, north to Fairground, west to State, north to Fairview, to the church. The west route is Main and Fairview south to Silver, west to Bartram, north to Fairground, east to Main, and north to the church. The time along the Silver street route will be between 9:15 and 9:30 a. m.

In Plain Words

By James Marlow

BOSTON—THE thing the CIO political action leaders are saying is just this:

1. A labor union should be interested in more than just trying to get better working conditions and wages from the boss of some plant.

2. Labor unions don't live in a vacuum. If they want better working conditions they should take an active part in the society in which they live.

3. The way to do this is to get into politics so strongly that union men can help elect politicians to pass laws that unions think are good.

Jack Kroll, head of the CIO's political action committee, talked on this subject yesterday at the convention of the CIO's 41 unions.

James Marlow

(The PAC was set up by the CIO about four years ago to take part in politics and get out a big vote to elect men the CIO liked and defeat those it disliked.

(The PAC was given credit for being a fairly strong force in the 1944 elections when President Roosevelt and a Democratic congress were re-elected.

(But the PAC in the 1946 elections, when a majority of Republicans were chosen for congress and has been running the show there ever since, was not considered strong.)

Getting Ready for '48

Now the PAC is getting ready for the 1948 presidential and congressional elections Kroll told the convention delegates.

"Basically, there is little difference between organizing men and women for political action and organizing them into unions.

'The techniques are the same, the goals are the same, and the men and women whom we are trying to reach are the same.

'Nevertheless, we haven't yet been able to duplicate our success at economic organization in the field of politics."

The reason Kroll gave for labor's political failure so far was it has not organized politically as it has economically, such as in forming unions.

And Kroll said:

"If we really convince ourselves that a national election is at least as important as a national strike, and act accordingly, we can win in 1948."

The CIO pledged itself at this convention, because of its hatred for the new labor law, the Taft-Hartley act passed by this 80th congress, to try to elect a new congress in 1948.

Block Campaign Set

And how does Kroll think the PAC is going to be a really effective force in the 1948 election?

By getting PAC political workers into every block in every community.

How many are needed? Kroll says 1,000,000. He says PAC has about 100,000 such workers now.

Hasn't the CIO-PAC been working for a long time, or at least since the elections in 1946? Yes, well, what's new in what Kroll says?

Only this. He says that until now the PAC has had workers in political wards and precincts. But he doesn't think that is enough, or that it reaches down far enough into the masses of voters.

So, in addition to ward and precinct workers, now the PAC wants political workers in every block where they can talk to their neighbors who, in 1948, are going to have to elect congressmen.

These same block workers can help in getting out votes by persuading people and actually get them to the polls, such as by taking them there in their automobiles.

Kroll says these 1,000,000 workers 'will supply the facts which their neighbors need to see the issue clearly, and decide them correctly.

AID CIRCLE MEETS WITH MRS. FLOCKEN

Members of Circle No. 3 of the Ladies Aid society of the First Presbyterian church were joined by several guests when they met Thursday night at the home of Mrs. L. H. Flocken on South State street. Mrs. A. F. Lantzer, leader, opened the meeting with a poem, "A Neighbor's Church," and Mrs. Harry S. Elliott conducted devotions. In keeping with the study topic, 'Great Nights of the Bible," Mrs. H. B. Shackelford presented "The Night of the Shipureck." Mrs. Lantzer gave a report of a meeting of the General Aid society and named the following to serve as a nominating committee: Miss Stella Kranet, chairman, Mrs. Harry Slyh and Mrs. James Walsh.

Mrs. G. W. Bowers, a guest of the circle, was honored in observance of her ninety-second birthday anniversary. Guests with Mrs. Bowers were Miss Mary Lentz and Mrs. Victoria Thomas. Mrs. Bowers is the widow of G. W. Bowers, a jeweler in Marion for a number of years. During the social hour Mrs. Flocken was assisted by her niece, Mrs. Thomas. Refreshments were served.

ANTI-FREEZE JOINS LIST OF SCARCITIES

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 17—Your car is in for a rough winter, motorist.

Like 40 cent steaks and cheap housing, anti-freeze is on the scarce list.

"The plain truth is, the chemical industry just hasn't got the capacity to manufacture all the anti-freeze needed this winter," one manufacturer said.

Another declared "just as soon as the temperature drops, all hell breaks loose."

Why an industry-wide shortage?

Productive capacity is insufficient, more cars are on the roads than ever before, people in northern cities invariably overbuy, and there is a shortage of drums and transportation facilities.

Said one Du Pont representative: "Chemicals used in anti-freeze have other important industrial uses, and the demand from other quarters is unprecedented.

American Diary

By Hal Boyle

GRAND FORKS, N. D.—TRAVELING to the moon may ultimately be simpler in this post-atomic age than going about America but it probably won't be as much fun.

For one thing on the moon there won't be such sign posts as "three miles to the Dew Drop Inn" or "Eat now at the Last Chance Bar."

Hal Boyle

Knocking about the United States highways is still a hazardous adventure, but there are the unequaled recompenses of the land that everybody in the world wants to visit or live in.

Yet it is a land not without its troubles for the natives—natives who still like and seek the creature comforts.

To them the food shortages and fuel uncertainties of Europe belong to another world—except there are stretches of hundreds of desert and mountainous miles where the traveler has to watch his gas reserves carefully.

How About Hazards

But what are the hazards?

Well, they might not discourage a pioneer mother, but they certainly cause some black moments for modern wives. One criticism of life on the road is that you can't judge the comfort facilities of a gasoline station by its bright paint or neon lights.

Some stations lit up like a Manhattan bar are filthy; others as insignificant at first glance as last week's pay check turn out to be as wholesome as your own home sweet home. They make the road more liveable.

The wise traveler today, just as he did before the war, will get up before the birds. Not that he is looking for the early worm—but he can get started on a fresh highway which he largely owns, before the trucks roar along to take over.

The condition of the highways is still good, but in many areas there are short detours where the roads are being improved. In many cases they are being converted into four-lane trafficways which will shorten the main route by by-passing many small towns.

Stop Early

But to be sure of a place to stay at the end of the day, it is necessary to roll the miles under the car early and to stop in mid-afternoon to try to grab suitable accommodations. If you don't, you may end up in a third class joint.

A few other obstacles are wives, their baggage, and their expressed desire for visits to scenic objectives which fall outside the main trip. This is not my own view so much as that of my friend.

But there are compensations to travel inside the United States. Everybody wants to tell you about the fairest road to the next town—and everybody has a short cut.

As my friend says, however, you begin to grow up the day you decide you can't believe them. America is a pattern you have to find for yourself. Sometimes the signposts aren't always clear.

Marion Group Attends Ohio Cancer Conference

Several women from Methodist churches of Marion and Marion county attended sessions of the Lima district Methodist Women's Society of Christian Service Wednesday in Lima. Largest delegation from Marion included ten women of the Wesley church W.S.C.S. Election of officers was held, with nearly all officers re-elected, headed by Mrs. E. E. Katterheinrich of New Knoxville. A new officer elected, secretary of the district Wesleyan Service Guild organization, is Miss LaVern Lash from Epworth church, Marion.

Serving on the nominating committee was Mrs. Beulah Cathers of Marion Epworth church. Having a part on the program was Mrs. John W. Ruth of Green Camp who with Mrs. Karl Hale of Upper Sandusky, presented an illustration of the Lord's prayer. Speakers at the morning and afternoon sessions were an Ohio conference W.S.C.S. officer and a missionary from India. Dr. John M. Versteeg, district superintendent, conducted installation of officers at the afternoon session.

HARPSTER CLUB MEETS

The Harpster Mothers' club was entertained Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Iva Mae Sanderson. Twenty-four members came masked and answered the roll call by giving a fire prevention hint. Brief talks were given by Mrs. Elizabeth Schrader and Mrs. Viola Parsell. Contests were held in keeping with Halloween.

Farley Says Women Lack Strength for Presidency

By The United Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 16 — No woman is "physically and emotionally strong enough" to serve out a full term as president of the United States, according to former postmaster general James A. Farley.

"Neither you nor I will live long enough to see a woman president," Farley said, addressing a Wellesley college alumnae dinner. "The presidency of the United States is the most terrific man-killing job in the world."

Although 65 per cent of the original forest area of the United States remains, many of the most important commercial forests are gone.

NEW SEASON OPENED BY P.-T.A. AT EDISON

The Edison Junior High school Parent-Teachers Association held its first meeting of the school year Tuesday night in the school auditorium.

Committee chairmen for the year were announced by Mrs. Lee Wederiz, president, as follows: Mrs. Irwin Myers, membership; Mrs. Wesley Bishop, ways and means; Mrs. Closs Musgrave, study club; Mrs. Herbert Clapsaddle, magazines; Mrs. Edwin Price, health; Mrs. Donald Phelps, social; Mrs. William Roberts, publicity, and Mrs. Richard Plantz, program.

Members of the faculty were introduced by J. E. Frew, principal.

For the program, Michael Rech, Scouting commissioner, gave a short talk on scouting and introduced Scoutmaster Joseph Bingham. Scout executive Owen Meddles, and the Scout committee of Troop 2. Miss Betty Plantz sang several numbers accompanied by Mrs. Hazel Price and Miss Marguerite Price playing Hawaiian guitars. Several guitar selections were also played by Mrs. Price and her daughter. Motion pictures on safety were shown by Mr. Frew.

POWER SURVEY FINDS DIVISION

Officials Vary Greatly in Estimates of Duration of Critical Period.

By The Associated Press

What is being done to meet the rapidly rising demand for electric power and light?

How long will it be before the generating facilities will be sufficient to meet all demands with a safe margin of reserves?

A nation-wide survey by The Associated Press shows answers vary from a utility executive's opinion "this winter is the real problem" to next years new facilities will have caught up with demand" to a government official's belief, "it'll get worse before it gets better."

Solutions range from short-term staggering of industrial power demands to long-term construction programs. Estimates of additions to generating facilities of privately-owned and government-owned power plants approach 18,000,000 kilowatts of additional capacity within five years.

However, Secretary of the Interior Krug says:

"Bad as the immediate outlook is, the real trouble will come in the winters of 1949 or 1950. Steam-generated power companies have bought out the capacity of machinery manufacturers for the next three years.

"Some big industries like Alcoa (aluminum), Monsanto (chemicals), and Kaiser (automobiles and steels), want to expand and can't get the power."

Krug Has Suggestion

Krug's solution, as told to an interviewer, is "something like the wartime scheduled of production of power equipment, more capacity to produce transformers, and restoration of any of the emergency interconnections that have been abandoned since the war."

However, the Edison Electric Institute, spokesman for the privately-operated utilities, says that power pooling through interconnections is continually growing.

The final link was recently made in a transcontinental hookup of facilities, so that it is now possible, theoretically at least, to transmit power from New York to San Francisco. While such transmission is admittedly unfeasible on a practical basis, the interconnection does mean that power can be "borrowed" from one system by another, across the nation as the peak loads occur in the various time zones and under varying industrial conditions.

FIREMEN MAKE TWO RUNS; DAMAGE $305

Firemen from Central station made two runs last night, one at 6:20 p. m. to the home of Gus Keuntzi, of Bellair Gardens, just north of the corporation line, and one at 9:27 p. m. to the Klinefelter residence at 456 East Church street, to extinguish a fire in an auto.

Firemen said that Keuntzi was heating water on a kerosene stove in a small pump house when the stove exploded, resulting in a $300 loss to the house and furnishings. A short circuit in a battery cable was attributed as the cause to the fire in the auto. Loss there was estimated at $5.

CHARLES R. VAUGHN

FINAL RITES HELD FOR SLAYING VICTIM

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 17—Final rites were held today at nearby Grove City for Charles R. Vaughn, slaying victim whose nearly nude and beaten body was found Sunday in a Halethorpe, Md., tourist cabin. The service was conducted by Rev. Frank H. Throop. Columbus Police Capt. Glenn C. Hoffman expressed belief robbery was the slaying motive and stated Vaughn's eating habits "do not check in the least with the man reported seen in a restaurant, and it is known that Vaughn never drank."

Hoffman said Vaughn, a church youth publication editor, never ate late at night because of a stomach condition and never ate heavy foods.

A man fitting Vaughn's description was reported to have eaten a steak and asked for beer at a roadside restaurant the night of the slaying. Maryland authorities have been seeking a "heavy set" woman seen with the man.

Roy Vaughn, a brother of the slain man, said Charles was divorced in 1923 or 1924 from a woman who now resides in California.

Members of Auxiliary At Columbus Meeting

Five members of the local Ladies' Auxiliary No. 277 to Roosevelt Lodge No. 1281 and local No. 1059, Machinists AFL, attended an all-day meeting of the Mid-Western District Council No. 1 of Ladies' Auxiliaries to International Association of Machinists Sunday, Oct. 12, in Columbus. Mrs. Margaret Beverly of Marion, a member of the local auxiliary and international vice president, presided.

Mrs. Anita Conkle, also a member of the local auxiliary, was elected secretary and treasurer of the district council. Others elected are Mrs. Nellie Dunderman of Auxiliary No. 21 of Toledo, president, Mrs. Frances Romer of Auxiliary No. 278 of Indianapolis, Ind., vice president and Mrs. Madeline Johnston of Auxiliary No. 238 of Battle Creek, Mich., and Mrs. Donelda Reed of Auxiliary No. 209 of Wilar, trustees.

Installation of the new officers was conducted by Mrs. Beverly. Edward Wiggens, district representative of Columbus, talked on the Taft-Hartley law.

PROSPECT CIRCLES MEET

Missionary circles of the Baptist church at Prospect held a combined meeting Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Charles Collins of Courtland terrace. Mrs. Wilbur Sivey, president, was in charge of the meeting and Mrs. George Thomas conducted the devotions, using the theme, "Old Roses for New." Mrs. Harold Smith directed the group singing and guest speaker for the program hour was Mrs. Walter Penry of Radnor. Her subject was "Christian Friendliness." Refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Belva Beery, Mrs. Carl Harmon, Mrs. Harold Click and Mrs. Emery Roberts. Guests were Mrs. Penry and Mrs. William Griffith of Radnor and Miss Joan Collins.

SMOKING IN BED CAUSES FIRE DAMAGE OF $35

Dave Russell, a roomer at the home of Robert Burns of 250 Ballentine avenue likes to smoke in bed. He smoked a very costly cigaret this morning, however, when he accidentally set fire to the bed clothing and for which doing he had to call the fire department. Firemen said the time was 7:07 a. m., the cost of the cigaret was $35 in damage.

CLASS MEMBERS ATTEND CALVARY CHURCH REVIVAL

For ladies' night at the revival service of Calvary Evangelical United Brethren church last night, Emma Berger and Berean Bible class members attended in a group and Mrs. A. L. Wood and Mrs. H. O. Rueger sang a duet. Tonight will be observed as Sunday school night and children's groups will be in the choir. There will be no service Saturday night.

Several passages of Scripture were read by Rev. Lewis Naumann of Canton who gave the sermon. Part of his message follows. He declared, "The man or woman who is converted to God and who presses on toward the high calling of God in Christ Jesus is always the man or woman who has a brilliant Christian experience. Justification is only possible because Jesus died on the cross and the penalty of sin was taken by Him. God looks at us through Jesus. Regeneration is a work done in us in the way of changing our inward nature, the work by which spiritual life is infused into the soul."

Auxiliary Members To Attend Dinner

Plans were made for a number of members of Eclipse Favorite No. 40, Ladies Auxiliary to the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, to attend a testimonial dinner Nov. 11 in Columbus at a meeting Wednesday afternoon in the I.O.O.F. hall. The affair will honor the outgoing grand president, Mrs. Agnes G. Strong of Boone, Ia.

A social hour followed with contest awards going to Mrs. Willie Seborne and Mrs. Alma Eddy. Birthday gifts from the lodge were presented to Mrs. Helen Bonecutter, Mrs. Virginia Merchant, Mrs. Marvel Perry and Mrs. Marie Dalsaver. A committee composed of Mrs. Mary Kunkler, Mrs. Dorothy McMurray and Mrs. Emma Merchant was in charge of refreshments.

Dunkerque, France, with a population of 100,000 before World War II, handled about 5,000,000 tons of cargo in its port every year.

BREWERS JOIN FIGHT TO CONSERVE GRAIN

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17—The nation's brewers set out today to save more than 650,000 bushels of grain a month for export to Europe without creating a beer and ale shortage in this country.

They hope to be able to meet that goal by the use of substitutes for corn, wheat and other grains which the Citizens Food committee is trying to conserve.

Top representatives of the brewing industry have agreed to curtail their corn consumption for three months, to use no wheat, table grades or rice or edible barley and to stop buying sorghum grains.

A spokesman for the United States Brewers foundation, which advanced the program to Charles Luckman's food committee, said the agreement reached last night will not necessarily mean a drop in production.

That will hinge, he said, upon the success of individual brewers in finding supplies of such grain substitutes as potatoes and cassava, a South American plant rich in starch.

Luckman tackled again today the problem of what can be done by the baking industry, whose officials have been conferring with him daily. Aides said he expects to announce a program under which the bakers will conserve 3,000,000 bushels a month.

British Press Criticizes U.S. for Delay in Relief

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Oct. 17 — Britain's weekly press lambasted the United States today for delays in financing European relief, and one newspaper declared repayment of the $3,750,000,000 U. S. loan "is not Britain's worry, but America's."

The New Statesmen and Nation, a weekly which often reflects leftist views, declared editorially that President Truman "fiddles with ineffectual schemes" to persuade America to eat less," but that "famine waits for no man's pleasure—not even that of the congressional committees, whose members have been surveying Europe with critical eyes."

The Conservative Spectator said that there was "every danger that the whole question will be carried forward into 1948—which, is a political year." It added that "for America to attach political or economic conditions of any kind to whatever assistance she may extend to this country and others would be altogether improper."

FRENCH NEAR AGREEMENT TO END MARITIME STRIKE

By The Associated Press

PARIS, Oct. 17 — Government delegates and union representatives said today they were nearing an agreement aimed at ending a maritime strike which has tied up French ports since yesterday morning.

Nearly 40,000 maritime workers were off the job, demanding 15 per cent pay increases.

A special government committee convened in mid-afternoon to try to find a formula for ending a strike of 30,000 transport workers whose demands for more money have tied up the buses and subways of Paris since Monday.

October's "heat wave," with temperatures 10 to 20 degrees above normal from the Rockies to the Atlantic coast, continued today but cooler weather was forecast for parts of the midwest over the weekend.

The mercury climbed into the 80's yesterday in most parts of the warm belt, touching 87 at Kansas City and 85 at Des Moines, Ia., Traverse City, Mich., Cincinnati, Columbus and Buffalo, N. Y.

Cool weather from Canada was expected to move into the Dakotas late today and spread into parts of Minnesota, Iowa, Michigan, Wisconsin and Illinois tonight and tomorrow, sending temperatures to near normal over the weekend.

MANSFIELD BUILDING SET

By The Associated Press

MANSFIELD, O., Oct. 16 — A three-year expansion program that will increase its ingot production 25,000 tons a year was announced today by the Empire Steel Corporation.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY

Samuel William Detrick of near Marion pleaded not guilty in municipal court yesterday when charged with driving while intoxicated. A hearing was set for later and he was released on $125 bond. He was arrested at 11:25 p. m. Wednesday by city police on Kenton avenue.

WILLYS PLANT IDLED

By The Associated Press

TOLEDO, O., Oct. 17—The assembly line of Willys Overland Motor Co., was idle today because of a steel shortage. W. E. Paris, vice president in charge of operations, said full-scale production would be resumed Monday.

RUSSIANS GET BREAD

By The United Press

MOSCOW, Oct. 17—Unrationed white bread, baked in bun-like four-ounce loaves, went on sale in Moscow groceries Thursday for the first time in a year.

Delegates Split Even Over Palestine in UN

By The Associated Press

LAKE SUCCESS, Oct. 17—As the United Nations cleared the way today for tackling proposals aimed at solving the Palestine question the official record showed an almost even division among delegates on the plan to partition the Holy Land into separate Arab and Jewish countries.

When general debate on the problem ended last night 14 of the 57 member nations, including the United States and Russia, had expressed support of partition, while 12 others had declared their opposition to the plan.

But it was apparent the fate of the partition plan, opposed violently by the Arab countries, now lies in the hands of 31 member nations who declined to register their views in general debate. Their positions probably will not be made known until the showdown vote comes.

the law of supply and demand. Scarcity of grain, he said, meant higher prices.

According to the latest statistics of the labor department, retail prices today were more than 25 per cent higher than at the same time last year.

Basing its figures on Oct. 11, the labor department said the American people paid one and one-half times as much today as in 1926 for 900 basic commodities on the wholesale level. And those commodities were 25.4 per cent higher than the same day a year ago, it said.

In New York, however, city market Commissioner Eugene G. Schultz said he believed most prices were a little lower than a month ago. He said consumer resistance caused the drop.

SCENE OF CONFERENCE. It was in this palace at Yalta, Russia, that Roosevelt Churchill and Stalin held their historic meeting, some details of which are related in today's installment of the James F. Byrnes account. President Roosevelt's quarters and the main conference room were on the ground floor of the right wing.

* * *

Polish Issue Argued at Yalta

be absorbed in what would remain of Germany.

The discussion was long and earnest but Stalin finally accepted the Curzon Line in principle and the following somewhat equivocal statement on Poland's frontiers was approved for inclusion in the protocol

"The three heads of government consider that the eastern frontier of Poland should follow the Curzon Line with digressions from it in some regions of five to eight kilometers in favor of Poland. They recognize that Poland must receive substantial accessions of territory in the North and West They feel that the opinion of the new Polish provisional government of National Unity should be sought in due course on the extent of these accessions and that the final delimitation of the western frontier of Poland should thereafter await the peace conference."

Not only Poland's boundaries but Poland itself was one of the most serious issues of the entire conference More time was spent on this subject than on any other. Because of the intensity of the argument Mr Roosevelt would assume a role more of arbiter than of advocate although he as well as Prime Minister Churchill urged establishment of a new Polish government in Warsaw

Stalin for Lublin Rule

The Soviet Union, on the other hand, wanted to continue the Lublin government Stalin was willing to add a few persons but he wanted to make certain that those who were added did not affect the Soviet Union's control of the government.

The President said he favored a Polish government which would resolve all the political differences by "creating a government of national unity, a government which would represent all the political parties." Such a government, he maintained should be provisional and should regard as its primary duty the establishment of a permanent regime He said the United States wished to have Poland on friendly terms with the Soviet Union and he felt if the conferees should solve the Polish question they could make it easier to establish peace in the world.

Churchill's Stand.

"Britain" the prime minister said, 'declared war on Germany in order that Poland should be free and sovereign Every one knows what a terrible risk we took and how nearly it cost us our life in the world not only as an empire but as a nation Our interest in Poland is one of honor Having drawn the sword in behalf of Poland against Hitler's brutal attack we could never be content with any solution that did not leave Poland a free and independent sovereign state."

He repeated the sentiment except as qualified by the President saying that Poland should not be free to entertain hostile designs against the peace and safety of the Soviets."

Mr Churchill eloquently painted the danger which arose from the continuing existence of two Polish governments. He urged that provision be made for a free election and that in the meantime, effective guarantees could be made to secure the lines of communication of the Soviet army.

Stalin's Answer

Stalin displayed great earnestness in replying

For the Russian people, the question of Poland is not only a question of honor but also a question of security Throughout history, Poland has been the corridor through which the enemy has passed into Russia Twice in the last 30 years our enemies, the Germans, have passed through this corridor It is in Russia's interest that Poland should be strong and powerful, in a position to shut the door of this corridor by her own force . . . It is necessary that Poland should be free, independent in power Therefore, it is not only a question of honor but of life and death for the Soviet state."

In every subsequent discussion the Soviet government has used this argument to justify what it has done in Poland Their idea of a friendly government is a government completely dominated by them The Lublin government fitted this description and Stalin did not want to take any chances with representatives of other political parties Later I discussed the subject with Mr Molotov, I could not impress him with my views that Soviet security would be better assured by having in Poland a people who were friendly, rather than a government that was friendly only because it was dictated to by the Soviet Union Unsuccessfully I urged that governments would come and go, but that if the Soviet government's conduct in Poland won the friendship of the people the friendship of the government would be assured

Roosevelts' New Proposal.

After the first discussion of Poland, President Roosevelt wrote a letter to Stalin suggesting that delegates from the Warsaw and London governments and representatives of the several political factions in Poland not represented in those governments, meet to consider the formation of a new Polish government The letter became the basis of further discussions

The conferees debated the president's proposal for several days Finally they agreed on a declaration providing among other things "The provisional government which is now functioning in Poland should therefore be reorganized on a broader democratic basis with the inclusion of democratic leaders from Poland itself and from Poles abroad This new government should then be called the Polish Provisional Government of National Unity."

A commission composed of Mr Molotov, Mr Harriman and Sir Archibald Clark Kerr, was appointed to consult first in Moscow with members of the Lublin government with democratic leaders from within Poland, and others from abroad, with a view to reorganizing the government along the lines indicated

"Free" Elections Pledged.

The declaration pledged the Provisional Government to the holding of free and unfettered elections as soon as possible on the basis of universal suffrage and secret ballot

As the conference neared its end we thought it was agreement to this troublesome issue [illegible] President Roosevelt said

"How [illegible] to hold [illegible]

"With a smile on his face" Mr. Molotov replied.

The [illegible] which, by [illegible] was that [illegible] He was said to [illegible] January 30 1947.

* * *

At the Yalta Conference, which Mr. Byrnes calls "the high tide of Big Three unity," President Roosevelt Prime Minister Churchill and Marshal Stalin first encountered the sharp differences over voting procedure and the use of the veto which have marked all the subsequent history of the United Nations In a fourth installment of "Speaking Frankly," to be published tomorrow, Mr Byrnes quotes from his own shorthand record of what was said on this problem at Yalta.

Prexies Cast Grid Dice For Fifth Pass in Row

Marion Harding will cast the grid dice against Findlay tonight on the Findlay Trojan field

The Presiders, 30 strong are slated to leave by bus this afternoon for their sixth football game of the season

They'll be shooting for their fifth straight victory, and the Trojans look like a natural to the Prexies

Trojan Season Records

Trojan season record stands at one win and four straight losses

Still you can never tell about Trojans

Last year the Presidents expected a probable cinch against Lance-defeated Findlay but crapped out 13-6 Last year Harding had a poor season all round and failed, in fact, to make their point once

Loaded This Year

This year they're loaded Running stars like Clarence Smith Jim Hill and Jim Cose get away for big gain through holes opened up by stellar President linemen Bob Snott Bob Ralston, Gene Peadon and Paul Menzer Drop kicker Dick Gnerman boots out the extra points—five so far this season Sophomore quarterback Dick Leffler, with two more seasons of play for the Presidents handles the ball like a veteran already

Coach Pete Howison will probably start Peadon and Bishop at ends Ralston and Hoffman tackles, Menzer and Corwin, guards, Snott, center Leffler quarterback Cose and Hill, halfbacks and Smith, fullback

2 Marion Grid Players Survive Cut at O.S.U.

Special to The Star

COLUMBUS, O, Oct 17—Among those surviving Ohio State Freshman Football Coach Sam Selby cut his squad from 150 to 109 was Elvin Beach and Bob Stroud of Marion Beach is a substitute center while Stroud subs at right guard

Others left on the frosh squad are ends, Don Winemiller of Crestline and Stark Lee of Upper Sandusky and fullback Eugene Rife of Upper Sandusky

CENTRAL WINS TILT; VERNON BOWS AGAIN

Dan Day Central left halfback, was the big gun in Central 14-7 defeat of Bucyrus in a Tri-City league junior high school football game at Bucyrus yesterday making two touchdowns in the first half.

Day scored the two Central tallies on the same reverse play After a sustained drive late in the first quarter Day took the ball on a reverse and skirted over for the score Bud Knisley plunged over for the first of his two extra points

Day tried it again in the second period and this time scooted 73 yards for pay dirt

Bucyrus made it 14-7 just before the half ended on a fourth down pass attempt A plunge added the extra point

Vernon was stopped 19-0, at Galion Wednesday night for their third league loss of the season

Central entertains Galion next Monday afternoon in their last game of the season Vernon plays host to Bucyrus on Oct 22 and Edison travels to Upper Sandusky on Oct 21.

Date of the Tri-City league All-Star game will be announced later Originally scheduled as a preliminary to the Harding-Circleville clash on Oct 31, the game may have to be played at another time because of time conflicts

TOUGH DAYTON TEAM TO BATTLE ANGELS

Rockets Rated Hot Sandlot Eleven; Here Tomorrow.

Marion Safety Cap Angels meet the Dayton Rockets in football at the Harding stadium tomorrow night at 8

They'll meet an outfit that beat Worthington, 19-7, while the best the locals could do was a 6-0 shutout

Carlton Kessler, former Ohio State end who played for Worthington against the Mickeys Rockets on Oct 5, labelled the Rockets "the best sandlot eleven I've looked at this year"

Rocket Coach Alex Rado, who was an All-West Virginia halfback at one time, has a creditable sandlot machine fashioned around former Dayton high school stars, a few lesser college players of yore and the T-formation

Rocket players to watch Saturday night are Claude Hoskey, giant fullback, Lou Terhune hard-running left half, Sam Cuscilla slightly built passer, Dick Keydo-zius, an aggressive end Floyd Crago center, George Koenig guard, and Ray Nardini, tackle

The Angels will be counting on the passing arms of halfback Bob Ivey and quarterback Ed Simmons to snap a two-game losing streak Angel aerials have accounted for a lot of yardage in their five tilts this season

Harold Hodges, a not man on defense, will not be in the Angel line up tomorrow or for the rest of the season He sustained a broken wrist in the Angel-Lockland game last Sunday

Halfback Bob Reams injured his ankle last week but will probably be ready to run for the Cabbies tomorrow

Ma Roseberry, who has been on the receiving end of many big Angel aerials, will again start at left end Roseberry and center King Keller are other Angel aces at defense

Angel Coach Gene Fetter will probably start other Cabby regulars Gilmore at right end Lust and McKnight tackles Obernour and Lewis, guards, and Scott at fullback

POGI, WEIDNER WIN ARMORY MAT EVENT

Gorilla Pogi won the first wrestling match in the double main event at the Armory last night, taking Rufus Jones in two falls, the first with a crab hold and the second when Jones was disqualified

Billy Weidner took Pavo Ketonen in two out of three falls to win the second event Pavo won the first fall with a grapevine hold but Weidner came back with a rolling leg spit and a full Nelson to remain undefeated in the Marion ring

In the preliminary seven-year-old Wayne Barlow took his five-year-old brother Larry in five minutes

OHIO STATE CAPTAIN'S BABY GETS GIFTS One day after Guard Bob Jabbusch, Ohio State football captain, became a father, his Buckeye teammates capped in and presented him with a perambulator and baby blanket for son Mark Robert at Columbus The university athletic department threw in a football helmet for good measure, apparently in the hope that young Jabbusch won't forget O S U in 1967 when he's old enough to follow his father's footsteps Presentation was made before the Ohio workout for Saturday's Big Nine conference tilt with Iowa Hawkeyes (AP Wirephoto)

Ohio Staters Get Pen-Lashing

Sports Writers Pick Squad to Pieces and Fesler Uses Stories as Fuel To Fire His Boys.

By FRITZ HOWELL

Ohio Associated Press Sports Editor

COLUMBUS, O Oct 17—The boys who write pieces for the papers have been saying some rather blunt—and at the same time pointed—things about Ohio State's football team and Coach Fesler is using the clippings as fuel with which to fire up the boys for Saturday's Big Nine clash with Iowa

Some of the pits of deathless prose pounded out by the scribes are thumb-tacked to the wall in the Buckeye training quarters and beside them is a note signed "Wes" which says:

"Attention! Do we like to get kicked in the teeth? Let's make them eat every word! Come on gang—fight your hearts out!"

Fesler plans to stay with his team Friday night at Magnetic Springs, instead of following his custom of attending the press smoker held before each game He isn't shunning the press, he explained but he just wants to be with his boys as they prepare to beat back the air-minded Hawkeyes

The writers had a field day picking to pieces last Saturday's 32-0 defeat at the hands of Southern California. Some of their potent paragraphs

Jim Schlemmer, Akron Beacon-Journal When mid-October rolls around and the players don't know how to line up for their offensive assignments fail to carry out their duties on attack stand and watch enemy ball carriers run almost at will then something seriously is wrong * * * To play hard and lose to opponents with superior manpower is easily excusable But to play sloppy, doppy, dumb, befuddled ball as the Bucks did Saturday failing to lineup properly failing to hold simple line passes, throwing 40-yard passes from only 22 yards out, tag tackling if tackling at all these are things which will drive a lot more persons than Fesler and his assistants mad

St Burick Dayton Daily News It wasn't so much what Southern California did as what Ohio State didn't do, that hurt the average Buckeye follower and sent him home wondering. * * * Why was it that Ohio State's defense was so bumbling, to say nothing of stumbling? Where was the precision the know-how? Why did Ohio backs go to the wrong holes? Why did Ohio backs make false moves that tipped off where the next play was going? And why did such demoralization set in that the Buckeyes got worse as the game progressed?

The Ohio State Lantern, campus publication, believes that the Bucks still have a chance to snap out of their losing ways Sports Columnist Chet Sullwold of the Lantern wrote

The defeat of the Bucks by Purdue, and their walloping by Southern Cal doesn't necessarily mean that the Bucks will lose all the rest of the games It's entirely possible for Ohio State to bounce back and win every one of its remaining ball games even beating the terrifying Michigan powerhouse.

Meanwhile Fesler has put his proteges through a week of stiff workouts in which tackling and blocking have come in for plenty of attention The former All-America end predicted the morale of his boys despite two straight setbacks would be at its season's peak against the Hawkeyes

IRISH, MICHIGAN GET "GREAT LAKES" BID

Schools See Little Chance of Playing in Newest Bowl.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Oct 17—Notre Dame and the University of Michigan had bids to the first Great Lakes bowl game today but there appeared slight chance that either of the schools would be able to accept

The offers were extended last night in telegrams from the Cleveland Council of the Knights of Columbus sponsor of the December event to Frank Leahy, coach of the Irish and Fritz Crisler, Michigan mentor

Although Leahy could not be reached for comment, Charles Callahan, assistant Notre Dame publicity director said he had been informed recently that the school's policy of rejecting post-season games was unchanged

Crisler likewise was not available but in Chicago Kenneth (Tug) Wilson commissioner of athletics for the Western conference, of which Michigan is a member, asserted

Our rules are against any game of that type In my judgment there is no change whatever of this game being played"

The first to receive invitations the schools were offered a substantial guarantee believed to be in the neighborhood of $100,000 apiece

Councilman Stephen Sundy, grand knight of the council said that although Dec 6 had been set as the tentative date of the game it could be changed to suit the Irish and Wolverines

Proceeds of the contest he said will be used to promote athletics here.

BOWLING SCORES

Four Osgood league keglers rolled better than 200 single games at the Palace Recreation Wednesday night and all of them rolled high 500 series. Larcom, D. Penry, G. Penry and Rish were the experts, averaging a 215 and over.

In the Business Men's league at the Palace, B. Seaton copped the honors for the three-game series with a 584 and Ed Cheney spilled the pins for a single high of 220. Pins refused to fall at the Marion Bowling Alley and all scores were around average with no change in the league standings. The individual scoring and team standings are as follows:

'48 MEAT HOPE SEEN BRIGHTER

Pessimistic Views Change as Producers Re-survey Situation.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 17—Livestock and meat producers sat back to take another look at conditions this week and decided there would be feed enough to turn out a good crop of meat this year and in 1948.

Views which were pessimistic as recently as a week ago had shifted more to the optimistic side, encouraged by (1) an improved corn crop outlook, (2) new information on feed substitutes, and (3) better methods of feed conservation, as advocated by many farm organizations.

For one thing, the American Meat institute emphasized that more than 50 per cent of all meat is produced without corn. Half the corn which goes into livestock and poultry is fed to hogs, but 85 per cent of the beef we eat is produced with feeds other than corn and other feed concentrates, says an Institute report.

H. M. Conway, market analyst of the National Livestock Producers association, said "there is plenty of corn around if it is stretched and used efficiently." He noted also that there likely will be some increase in shortfed cattle coming in December and January.

The bureau of agricultural economics has calculated the hog population for 1947 at 85,500,000, an increase of three per cent over last year. On Jan. 1 the nonmilking cattle population—from which comes most of the year's beef—was around 55,000,000 head.

Of these, the department of agriculture reported in its most recent estimate, the number of cattle and calves on feed in the corn belt as of Aug. 1 was 40 per cent above the same date a year ago, a month after removal of price controls. This is the grainfed beef which reaches market in the fall and winter months.

Corn belt feeders indicated they intended to send a much larger proportion to market this month and next than they did last year, the department added.

Hiram College Examines Life in Smaller Towns

By The Associated Press

HIRAM, O., Oct. 17—Folks living on farms and in small towns will examine their way of life today and tomorrow in the friendly atmosphere of this little college community.

For today was the first day of the fourth annual Community Institute sponsored by Hiram college with this subject up for discussion: "Living and making a living in the small community."

Tonight Senator George D. Aiken (R-Vt.) will talk on "the future of our rural communities," and tomorrow the institute will hear Jerry Voorhis, former congressman from California and secretary of the Cooperative League of the United States.

That the type of collegiate football being played this season is a big improvement over the play of recent years is best evidenced in the way former servicemen are holding up in the line.

Sam Zatkoff, 27-year-old senior from Hamtramck, Mich., is starring at end for Illinois while John Ferraro, 23, who was All-America tackle with Don Whitmire of Navy in 1944, is a veritable 240-pound stone wall for Southern California.

In the Rocky Mountain section, Colorado has a brilliant tackle in Paul Briggs who was a standout for the Buffaloes despite their 47-0 trouncing at the hands of Army. Briggs is regarded as the best lineman in the Big Seven. He stands six-feet-four and weighs 245 pounds. Zatkoff blocked two punts for Illinois last season and was one of the Illini stars in the Rose Bowl victory. Against Iowa recently, Zatkoff jumped on an Iowa fumble on the 17-yard line. The play led to the first touchdown in a 35-12 victory.

A few moments later Zatkoff blocked a punt on Iowa's 35-yard stripe and the Big Nine champions went on for another score with Perry Moss pitching. Zatkoff also spent most of the afternoon in the Iowa backfield.

Ferraro has helped a strong Trojan line this season. Southern California trounced Washington, and held favored Rice to a 7-7 tie mainly through sterling line play. Should Ferraro be chosen for one of the All-America tackle berths this season it will be the first time a player spread that honor over two such widely separated seasons.

Make This Home Recipe To Take Off Ugly Fat

It's simple. It's amazing how quickly one may lose pounds of bulky, unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this recipe yourself. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. It contains nothing harmful. Just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Rennel Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Then take two tablespoonsful twice a day. That's all there is to it.

If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back. You don't have to starve yourself; eat sensibly per instructions on bottle. Follow the easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

TRUMAN PUTS PARTY ON LIMB

Statements on Price Control and Police States Confuse Democrats.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17—President Truman appeared today to have left his own party divided on the issue of government price controls while projecting the high cost of living squarely into the 1948 campaign.

Politicians generally said Mr. Truman's statement that he has some interesting figures on price rises indicates he will give the nation his version of how and why living costs have soared when he feels the proper time has arrived.

But he left both Democrats and Republicans somewhat confused when he said at his news conference yesterday that rationing and government controls, which he said icludes rent controls, are the methods employed by a police state.

Stresses Voluntary Feature

The President emphasized he was trying to get a free enterprise nation to accomplish voluntarily in the conservation of food what police states do by force.

Senator Pepper (D-Fla.), who has said that Mr. Truman undoubtedly will be renominated by the Democrats, told a reporter he can't agree with the President that there would be anything smacking of a police state in the return to rationing and price controls the Florida senator has been urging.

Most of his party members appeared to believe Mr. Truman's remarks yesterday had killed a move sponsored by Chester Bowles, Leon Henderson and others to bring before congress the issue of reinstating price controls.

They said the President's statement, unless supplemented later, may spell the doom of rent ceilings as well.

Recalls Anti-OPA Promises

Obviously alluding to statements made in congress at the height of the battle over OPA, Mr. Truman said he was told very vociferously that this was a free country and we wouldn't suffer from the things we are suffering from if controls were taken off immediately.

Mr. Truman vetoed the first OPA extension bill but signed a second one. Later he abolished most controls.

Senator Ives (R-NY) told a reporter he wonders "If the President has forgotten that when we had controls we had fairly low prices but no goods."

"What good are low prices if you have to deal in the black market?"

DEATHS and FUNERALS

Mrs. Leda Koenig

Mrs. Leda V. Koenig, 60, wife of John F. Koenig of 845 Woodrow avenue, died in her home at 6:30 a. m. today. She had been ill since August last year.

Born June 29, 1887, in Ostrander, she was a daughter of Joseph and Clorinda Fox Brobeck. Oct. 1,1908, she married Mr. Koenig in Marion. A resident of Marion 45 years, she came here from LaRue, and was a member of Oakland Evangelical United Brethren church and of the auxiliary to the Carman's lodge.

Surviving with her husband are a son, John J. Koenig of 470 Olney avenue, a grandson, and a sister, Mrs. James Navin of Blaine avenue.

Funeral services will be conducted Monday at 2 p. m. in the Schaffner-Denzer funeral home on East Center street by Rev. H. V. Falor, pastor of Oakland church. Burial will be in Marion cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home after 7:30 p. m. Saturday.

William Brocklesby

EDISON—William Brocklesby, 85, a resident of Edison, died at 6:20 p. m. Thursday in the Stone rest home in Fredericktown. He had suffered a fall several weeks ago. Born May 4, 1862, north of Edison, he was a farmer and had lived in the Edison community all his life. His wife, Mrs. Laura Newson Brocklesby, died some time ago. Surviving are 11 children, Mrs. T. C. TRUCK BURNS AT UPPER UPPER SANDUSKY, O., Oct. 17—Driver Jim Relt and Gerard F. Schultz, both of Staten Island, N. Y. escaped injury near here Wednesday when the empty, furniture truck in which they were riding hit the ditch and burned on route 20N, at the Big Four railroad underpass. Relt told state highway patrolmen he swung from the road to avoid hitting a farm tractor driven by Mrs. William Buxton, of southwest of Wharton. The truck was destroyed by fire. Relt and Schultz returned to New York by plane.

OHIO LEGISLATOR DIES

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, Oct. 17—Funeral arrangements were completed today for Republican Rep. J. Harry Asmann, a member of the Hamilton county delegation to the Ohio legislature for 12 years. Asmann, who was 73 years old, died yesterday at Christ hospital where he had been in an oxygen tent for several weeks.

FINED ON CONDUCT CHARGE

Robert Arthur Olsen of New Bloomington pleaded guilty in municipal court yesterday when charged with intoxication and disorderly conduct and was fined $25 and costs. He was arrested at 4:18 a. m. Thursday on West Center street when he was found creating a disturbance, police said.

COMMUNIST JAILED

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 17 — Leon Josephson, 49, one-time Trenton, N. J., attorney and admitted Communist, was sentenced Wednesday to a year's imprisonment and fined $1,000 after a jury convicted him of contempt of a congressional subcommittee investigating subversive activities.

POSSIBLE NEW WAY TO AID EUROPE EYED

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17—The $5,000,000,000 commodity credit corporation may provide a way to meet Europe's immediate need for food without a special session of congress, agriculture department officials said today.

They explained the CCC could sell American grain and other edibles at cut-rate prices for export, thus stretching European dollar supplies farther than if the needy nations had to buy at current market quotations.

The deal would depend, however, on an advance agreement by congressional leaders to reimburse the CCC for its losses when the regular session begins in January.

Secretary Anderson told a news conference late yesterday, without elaboration, that government officials are looking into the possibility of using CCC funds.

The corporation finances government farm price support programs and acts as a food purchasing agency for some foreign government and foreign relief programs.

FACES NEGLECT CHARGE

Mrs. Hazel M. Carey, taken into custody by the sheriff's department here yesterday, was arraigned in Juvenile Judge Edward J. Ruzzo's court this morning where she plead not guilty to a charge of neglect of four minor children. Bond was set at $200 and she was ordered to appear for a hearing at 9 a. m. Wednesday. The affidavit was filed by her husband, Lester S. Carey of County Humane society. Mrs. Carey was returned to the county New Bloomington, before Ralph Carnarh, attorney for the Marion jail.

FILE CLAIMS PROMPTLY, RAIL WORKERS URGED

Railroad workers were urged today to file sickness claims promptly by William J. Fischer, branch manager of the Columbus office of the Railroad retirement board.

He reminded the employes that a representative of the Columbus office visited Marion regularly on the first and third Wednesday of each month to offer assistance with filling out application blanks. The board representative is stationed on those days at the Erie freight office on West Center street.

In order to avoid loss of benefits, a claimant must have his application for benefits in not later than the seventh day after the first day of sickness claimed. This prompt filing for benefits can save as much as five days benefits which might otherwise be lost.

Application blanks may be obtained from the Columbus office, from any railroad or from the secretary of the local Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen lodge.

First Davis Automobile Leaves California Plant

By The Associated Press

VAN NUYS, Calif., Oct. 17—The first Davis automobile, a three-wheeled car which the manufacturer says can attain a speed of 116 miles per hour, rolled off an assembly line at the Davis plant here Wednesday.

The Davis is a coupe with a removal hard top, has a wheelbase of 108 inches and is powered with a four cylinder 68-horsepower engine. Gary Davis, head of the firm, said the three-wheeler will sell for $995 F.O.B. Los Angeles and "slightly higher east of the Rockies."

FARM INCOME HITS PEAK

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16—The agriculture department today estimated gross farm income this year will be $34,300,000,000, the highest of record and 18 per cent above 1946. Net income, after paying production expenses, was figured at $18,000,000,000.
